Bitterness Delaying Legislation.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—With adjournment at hand the first session of the overwhelmingly Democratic congress in the second term of the overwhelmingly reëlected Democratic President bids fair to go down in history as a Roosevelt fiasco.

It is already apparent that little, if any, of the ambitious program of social and economic legislation for attaining the "more abundant life" with which Mr. Roosevelt embarked upon his second term will be enacted into law.

In a congress in which four out of five senators and three out of four representatives are Democrats, an unparalleled condition obtains that bodes no good for the President in the remainder of his administration and for his party in the 1938 and 1940 elections.

Wonder If Crackup Is Near.

The Republicans on the sidelines and not a few Democrats, one judges from cloakroom comment this last week, are wondering whether we are witnessing the beginning of the crack-up of a party intoxicated with power. If so, it is happening sooner than the most rabid Roosevelt foes expected.

The Democrats are completely disorganized as a result of the internecine party struggle engendered by Mr. Roosevelt's ill starred undertaking to pack the Supreme court with a sufficient number of new judges to insure favorable decisions on the legislation he initiates. The bitterness fostered by this five month battle is indescribable. Most Republicans entertain kindlier feelings toward Mr. Roosevelt than many of the Democrats he alienated by his attempt to subject the court of last resort to the executive will.

Antagonism Growing.

This bitterness has been intensified by the pressure successfully exerted by the administration to effect the selection of Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky for Democratic leader of the senate, while the President was professing neutrality in the contest between Mr. Barkley and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi. The net result is an extension and strengthening of antagonism in Democratic ranks to the President and to anything he wants.

Mr. Roosevelt has suffered a tremendous loss of prestige by virtue of his stand not only on the court question but on the steel strike. Such is the evidence of popular coolness to his policies that a good many senators and congressmen—Democrats at that—have been moved to doubt the existence of that mandate which was supposed to have been given Mr. Roosevelt by two-thirds of the electorate barely nine months ago.

People Against Packing.

Of course, Democratic as well as Republican legislators have been convinced for months that the people were overwhelmingly opposed to the President's scheme to pack the court. They knew that from the tenor of the letters they received from constituents, a common estimate being that 85 per cent of such letters urged defeat of the bill. The first tangible evidence of the President's loss of popular support on this issue was furnished by the vote in the senate last Thursday, by which the court packing bill was recommitted to the judiciary committee.

The fact that only eighteen out of seventy-six Democrats went into the last ditch for the President's project to pack the court and that even Democratic Leader Barkley himself was not one of them, left no doubt that the popular "mandate" to the President to do anything he pleased in any way he preferred had vanished into thin air.

Even before this the survival of the "mandate" had been questioned. The President aided and abetted John L. Lewis' C. I. O. warfare, first on the automobile manufacturers and later on the steel companies in coalition with Democratic Governor Earle of Pennsylvania and Democratic Governor Davey of Ohio, until public opinion turned against their protection of illegal mass picketing instead of the legal right to work of men who wanted to work.

At this evidence of adverse public opinion the President as well as the

SOX SPLIT; CUBS LOSE; SARAZEN WINS GOLF PRIZE

Highlights of yesterday's sports events:

BASEBALL—The White Sox and Yankees split a double-header before 50,000 fans at Comiskey Park. The Yankees won the first game, 12 to 11, with four home runs off Ted Lyons. The Sox took the second, 7 to 6, by scoring a run in the ninth. They tied the score with a three run eighth inning rally after Tom Henrich's two home runs had driven in five runs and given the Yankees a 6 to 3 lead. The split gave the White Sox the series, three games to one. The Giants shut out the Cubs, 5 to 0, at New York as the Chicagoans collected only six hits. The Cubs' lead was cut to two games by the defeat.

GOLF—Gene Sarazen won first prize in the $10,000 Chicago open tournament by totaling 290 for 72 holes over the Medinah Country club course. Horton Smith, Ky Laffoon, and Harry Cooper tied for second with 291. Gus Moreland of Peoria led the amateurs in the field with a card of 300.

BROTHER JOINS U-BOAT PASTOR IN GERMAN JAIL

Seized After Defying Nazis in Sermons.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 25.—The Rev. Walter Niemoeller of Bielefeld, younger brother of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, submarine commander in the world war and militant leader of the Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] church, today joined his brother in jail. He was arrested by the GSP [secret police] after delivering "fighting sermons" to overflow congregations in his brother's parish at Dahlem, suburb of Berlin.

Walter Niemoeller came to Dahlem especially to occupy his brother's pulpit at St. Anne's church, Jesus Christ church and St. Anne's parish hall after the former submarine commander had been arrested July 1 on charges of inciting to disobedience.

Pastor Assails Press.

Walter Niemoeller's sermon was based on I. Corinthians, chapter 10, verse 12, which reads: "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

He severely criticized Nazi newspapers which had accused his brother of preaching sedition. He cited a Bielefeld paper which had called his brother a "devilish pastor."

The clergyman denied that any Confessional pastor ever had attempted to escape arrest by flight. No paper, he said, had published corrections of such assertions. Newspaper writers, he said, have been forced to acknowledge that many of the arrested clergymen had demonstrated they considered no sacrifice too great to make "for their fellow countrymen and the fatherland."

Reads Brother's Message.

Walter Niemoeller said his brother had written from prison urging his followers not to believe stories that several pastors, fearing arrest, had fled.

After the second sermon in the parish hall four police officers arrested Walter Niemoeller and led him through part of the congregation still gathered outside the building. He was taken to police headquarters.

The pastor's detention brought to 58 the number of arrested Confessional pastors who are fighting for freedom of creed. Some of these have been detained six months or longer under "protective" arrest. The Rev. Mr. Asmussen recently was released and then again was taken into custody.

25 Pastors Expelled.

In addition, twenty Confessional pastors were forbidden to preach and twenty-five others were expelled from their parishes.

Whether Martin Niemoeller will be brought to trial this week or at some future date is a matter of speculation. Governmental authorities have made no announcement concerning the trial.

The Niemoeller brothers are members of a clerical family, their father having been a pastor in the Ruhr district.

ELEVEN KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS AS BOLT HITS TREE

Alton, Mo., July 25.—(AP)—A bolt of lightning broke up a horseshoe pitching contest and rendered eleven of nearly thirty spectators unconscious at an Ozarks mountain village near here today.

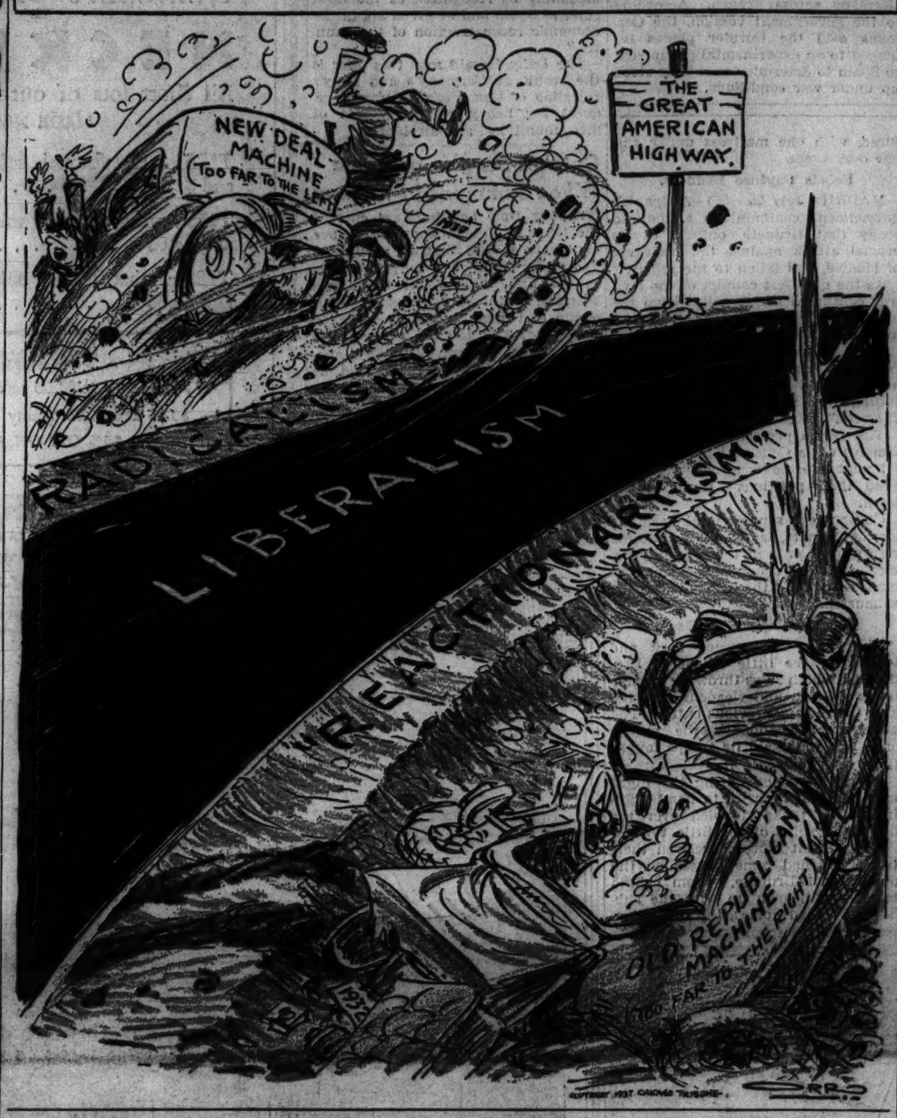
The mountaineers were gathered in front of the general store at Riverton to witness the usual Sunday morning games. Sunday school had just been dismissed at the small church across the street. Several youngsters had climbed upon a board fence beside their fathers to root for their favorite.

The lightning struck a large tree. Victims were bowled off the fence and scattered about the ground. Eleven of the injured were treated by a physician. One 5 year old boy is not expected to live.

At 77 She Challenges All at Spinning Wheel

Princeton, W. Va., July 25.—(AP)—Mrs W. J. Walker dusted off her spinning wheel today and challenged any one to "spin better or faster." The woman, 77 years old, who has not touched a spinning wheel for years, plans to prove her supremacy in a spinning marathon Aug. 12 during the Mercer county centennial celebration. Forty women from five states are expected to compete.

SOFT SHOULDERS



Gavel to Make Only Sound as Deaf Convene

The lobby of the Hotel Sherman, last week noisy with the roaring of the International Lions delegates, yesterday was quiet. The persons congregated there, in crowds as dense as those of the Lions, conversed in sign language.

They were the advance guard of the 18th triennial convention of the National Association of the Deaf, which opens today. More than 3,000 persons will attend, but the sound of human voice will not be heard. The only speech will be that of flashing fingers, weaving hands, and waving arms.

Rap of Gavel to Be Only Sound.

From the opening ceremonies at 8 o'clock tonight, when a Chicago girl, deaf since birth, will sing "The Star Spangled Banner" on her fingers, until the final business session Friday, the only sound will be the rap of gavel on wood.

Only persons completely bereft of their sense of hearing are included in the membership of the association, which held its first convention in Chicago in 1893. And of the 3,000 expected for this meeting, only a dozen or so—instructors and interpreters—will be able to hear the human voice.

This is, however, no defeatist group. Early comers yesterday were gay, smiling. They are earnest people, who have overcome their physical handicaps. Each has found himself a niche in industry, science, or the arts, an interpreter explained.

"We have chemists, clergymen, dentists, architects, poets—anything you can mention," said a woman instructor. "We have about seventy-five editors and writers. We even have a Wall street broker.

"That handsome young man over there," pointing to a young Adonis at the information desk, "is a very fine professional photographer. The girl beside him is a machine operator—makes cotton house dresses. That tall, dark man runs his own printing shop."

The machine operator was Miss Virginia M. Dries of Chicago, deaf since birth, who will sing the national anthem at tonight's meeting. She can do this, she explained, by sensing the vibrations of the piano.

Keeps Time with Signs.

"A girl who can hear will sing it orally," she wrote on a pad of paper, "and another girl will play the piano. I will keep time with them in the signs. A girl from Kansas will sing our convention song, 'Chicago's Challenge,' in the sign language, too."

Messages from President Roosevelt, Gov. Horner, and Mayor Kelly will be read, in the sign language, at the opening session tonight, and Daniel I. Cloud, superintendent of the Illinois School for the Deaf at Jacksonville, the hearing son of deaf parents, will speak, but the climax of the evening will come at 9 o'clock: A balloon dance.

There will be little music at this dance—for the deaf can hear neither wood, wind, nor string instrument—but there will be many bass drums. There will be rhythm and vibration, and some superb, dancing.

BREAD, WATER BREAK PRISONERS' STRIKE FOR FREE TOBACCO

South Pittsburgh, Tenn., July 25.—(AP)—Officer H. N. Minnis reported gleefully today that 12 prisoners who staged a sitdown strike for free tobacco and the right to sit in front of the jail every night were begging for terms.

The prisoners refused to budge yesterday when ordered out to work on the city streets, and told Officer Minnis they were "union men" striking for tobacco and privileges.

"They broke jail last night and got drunk—so drunk they all came back," Officer Minnis asserted. "They were powerful thirsty and hungry this morning, but they got nothing but bread and water.

"Their spokesman told me they wanted to quit this 'union' business and go back to work. All they wanted, he said, was something to eat beside bread and water—but that's all they'll get in the morning. But they almost worked me to death toting ice water."

CHARLEY WINES AND DINES 400 TO HONOR BABY

New Orleans, La., July 25.—(AP)—Rotund Charley Tung, the Chinese laundryman, wined and dined 400 guests at a hotel roof garden tonight in honor of the first birthday of his second son, Edson.

Political leaders and newspapermen were mixed together at the dinner table along with Charley's kinsmen.

VAST SPRECKELS ESTATE SHRINKS TO A $20 FINISH

San Diego Cal., July 25.—(AP)—The estate of Claus Spreckels Sr., whose wealth dwindled from millions to a truck worth $20, was recorded as settled today in court files. The estate was divided among creditors until only a "four cylinder truck, not in condition to operate, $20," remained.

Grim Searcher Cups Ear for a Clarion Call

With a pocketful of corn, a revolver, the best wishes of every resident of the block, stern orders from Commissioner Allman, and the jitters, Policeman Paul Schroeder began pacing the 2800 block of Sheffield avenue at 4 a. m. today.

Policeman Paul Schroeder on duty.

His orders seemed very pleasant indeed: to dine on chicken tonight.

But the chicken the commissioner meant was a very particular chicken—cunning, resourceful, scornful of policemen—none other, indeed, than the rooster whose crowing for days has awakened the entire neighborhood at dawn.

Monster Never Seen.

No one living, so far as the police can ascertain, ever has seen the feathered monster that crows at the law.

When sleepy residents of the block called upon the commissioner to silence the rooster, he ordered Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield station to investigate, take proper action and report. The captain sent Policeman Schroeder over last Thursday morning to wring the rooster's neck.

Just at daybreak the rooster began crowing. Policeman Schroeder hurried over to take appropriate action. But when he got where he was going, it wasn't whence the crows were coming. The rooster, he eventually reported, was either quintuplets or a ventriloquist, and perhaps both.

That happened Friday morning, too. And Saturday.

Commissioner Means Business.

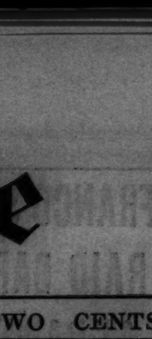
Then came the new order from Commissioner Allman: Get that rooster matter appropriately acted upon no later than today. In other words, have Policeman Schroeder take it home for Mrs. Schroeder to cook tonight.

It's the rooster's neck, or the policeman's pride.

In case he sees the rooster, and the rooster's wearing a bullet proof vest, he plans to sprinkle the corn on the ground and lure the rooster into the station, where other officers can sprinkle salt on its tail.

Four Parolees Seized, 2 for Rape Attempts

The law caught up with four paroled convicts in Chicago yesterday. Two were accused of attempted rape and the other two, arrested with a police character, were seized when police found weapons in their car.



Edmund Chuski. [Parolee].

One of those accused of attempted rape is Edmund Chuski, a youth of 19 years, identified by a girl, 14 years old, as one of three gunmen who bound and gagged her and held her prisoner for six hours.

Chuski, who lives at 5136 South Carpenter street, was turned loose by the parole board little more than a month ago from a one to ten year term on a larceny charge involving a sex crime.

The girl victim, who resisted the efforts of her three captors to rape her and finally made her escape, is Miss Helen Byszewski of 5159 South Wolcott street. She was on her way home from a church party with Stanley Babuska, 16 years old, a neighbor boy, when the three hoodlums beat down her escort as the young couple entered the Davis Square park.

Bound and Blindfolded.

Helen was dragged from the park to the rear porch of an apartment at 4343 South Hermitage avenue, about a block away.

"They tied my wrists with a piece of clothesline," she said, "blindfolded me, and put a handkerchief over my mouth so I couldn't scream."

When a woman passed the building, the girl said, the men became alarmed and dragged her across the alley to another building. Later the men carried her back to the first building and tried to attack her.

Later her captors relaxed their vigilance, she said, so she loosened the ropes without attracting attention and made a dash down the stairway. One of the men pursued her, but she outran him.

Answers Description.

Chuski was arrested at his home, more than a mile from the place where the girl was held captive, because the police knew him and thought he answered the description she gave. Helen identified him, and so did her escort. Chuski denied the girl's charges.

Helen was not certain as to the location of the building, but identified it when taken on a tour of the neighborhood by the police.

Chuski had a record as a juvenile. Although his prison sentence of one to ten years was on a larceny charge, police said it resulted from a lovers' line robbery in which he attempted to attack the girl whose escort he had just robbed.

Other Parolees Arrested.

Another parolee was arrested for attempted rape Saturday night. He is Andrew Devoni, 27 years old, of

NEW BATTLE ON NEAR PEIPING; TRUCE BROKEN

Fight During Night; Tokio Stirred.

BULLETIN.

TIENTSIN, July 26 (Monday).—(AP)—The headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Kiyoshi Katsuki, commander of the Japanese army in North China, announced today all available Japanese strength had been thrown into action for a punitive campaign against the Chinese 29th army.

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 26 (Monday).—Japanese authorities today announced the occupation of Langfang and the Chinese barracks at that town, which is located between Peiping and Tientsin. According to the Japanese, the Chinese troops are retreating toward Huangtsun, 12 miles southeast of Fengtai.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 26 [Monday].—Heavy losses were inflicted on Chinese troops this morning when Japanese army planes bombarded the town of Langfang, midway between Peiping and Tientsin. Most of the bombs were aimed at Chinese barracks which were filled with troops.

The bombing followed a new outbreak of hostilities between Chinese and Japanese armies despite last week's truce agreement. Dispatches from Peiping said both Japanese and Chinese saw little hope for restoration of peace in North China, where fighting near the Marco Polo bridge, near Pieping, on the night of July 7 ushered in preparations for war.

Japanese Describe Battle.

At 6:30 a. m. today Japanese garrison headquarters announced in a communique that Japanese planes had commenced bombing the barracks at Langfang. It was announced that the Japanese planes soared over Langfang at 5 a. m. and discovered that a vanguard of Japanese reënforcements had reached the scene of a clash which began shortly before midnight.

The Japanese garrison communique which announced the air raid said the Japanese forces were holding a position at Langfang station and were fighting vigorously.

Charge Chinese Fired First.

The Japanese statement said:

"A communications squad sent to Langfang, southeast of Peiping, to repair military telephone wires and troops which accompanied the squad were fired upon by Chinese at 11:30 p. m. yesterday. The Chinese used machine guns, hand grenades and trench mortars. The Japanese troops accepted the challenge. Japanese reenforcements are being rushed in consideration of casualties expected."

Arrow on map points to Langfang, where Chinese-Japanese hostilities were renewed.

Rail communications in all directions from Tientsin and Peiping were interrupted by the new outbreak.

Cabinet Meets in Tokio.

The Japanese cabinet met this morning to consider the situation as a result of the resumption of hostilities. The navy department commissioned Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, chief of the third fleet, to carry out "emergency measures."

The cabinet also considered a special military budget of $27,800,000. It is a foregone conclusion that parliament will approve the expenditure.

Armies Alert West of Peiping.

PEIPING, July 25.—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese troops continued to confront each other in menacing attitudes west of Peiping today, although both had undertaken to withdraw in their truce agreement.

Japanese made fresh accusations that the Chinese 37th division, which its commanders had agreed to evacuate to the south, still was strengthening its positions west of Peiping.

Tientsin dispatches reported the arrival at Taku, port of Tientsin, of three Japanese transports.

The Japanese military took over all Japanese and Chinese wharves at Taku and otherwise made preparations for further unloading there. Chinese continued to report that large Japanese troop contingents were coming.

A British naval vessel stood by a British owned wharf at Taku during the Japanese activity, and French and Italian soldiers were also on guard duty there.

One Japanese destroyer stood by the transports standing outside Taku bar. Their cargoes were taken into armed lighters, which carried them across the bar. Another Japanese destroyer was anchored near the unloading wharves.

The Japanese came into friction with the French garrison in Tientsin when they took over without notice a section of telephone wires the French maintain along the railway outside Tientsin. The French protested to the Japanese command, but thus far without avail.

Jap Sailor Still Missing.

SHANGHAI, July 25.—(AP)—Sadao Miyazaki, Japanese bluejacket whom his compatriots said was kidnaped by Chinese, still was missing tonight, more than twenty-four hours after his disappearance.

1,542 PLANES IN BRITAIN'S FIRST LINE AIR FORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 25.—Great Britain now has 1,542 war planes, it was stated today by the air ministry. With reserves the number of modern planes probably would at least double that.

Many of the present squadrons are skeletonized, however, and such bomber squadrons will be raised from eight planes each to twelve, fighters from twelve to fourteen, and scouts from nine to eighteen each before the full strength of 1,750 first line planes is reached. Only four more squadrons are scheduled, but to bring all to full strength will require 208 planes.

ITALY LAUNCHES SUPER WARSHIP OF 35,000 TONS

TRIESTE, Italy, July 25.—(AP)—The 35,000 ton battleship Vittorio Veneto, first of the new superdreadnaughts Italy hopes will give her one of the world's most powerful navies, was launched today in the presence of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena.

The wife of a common workman, Signora Maria Bertuzzi, chosen by Premier Benito Mussolini's orders, was sponsor for the new man o' war. As 10,000 workmen and 100,000 other onlookers cheered she pressed the button which sent the great hull down the ways.

The Vittorio Veneto is the first tangible expression of Italy's determination to have "an ocean going navy."

FRANCO'S PLANES RAID BARCELONA AT DAWN; 65 DIE

Bomb City; Residents are Machine Gunned.

BARCELONA, Spain, July 25.—(AP)—At least sixty-five persons were killed and 150 injured today when eight rebel planes carried out a terrific dawn raid on Barcelona. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's planes showered bombs on the city for an hour and machine gunned citizens as they ran for safety.

Arrows point to Barcelona, bombed by rebels, and Brunete, captured by insurgents.

The attack began at 3:30 a. m. Three planes first flew over and dropped powerful flares which illuminated most of the city, making targets easily visible to other planes which soon arrived with loads of bombs.

The bombardment was intense. As frightened men, women, and children ran from their homes for places of greater safety the planes swooped down and opened their machine guns on the streets.

Report Shelling from Sea.

Residents of a section of the city which suffered most declared there also was shelling from the sea.

It was the worst air bombing of the war for Barcelona, largest port and industrial center of Spain and capital of the autonomous Catalan régime, allied with the Madrid-Valencia government.

[Valencia suffered two disastrous air attacks in April and May, with a total of more than 300 persons killed. Those attacks were believed to have come from rebel bases on Mallorca, Balearic Island.]

A woman and her 16 year old son, who were gathering mattresses to take with them to a refuge, were buried in débris as their home collapsed. They were extricated uninjured, with one mattress under and one over them.

Rebels Capture Brunete.

MADRID, July 25.—(AP)—A Spanish government communique announced today that Brunete, outpost of its crucial attack against the besiegers of Madrid, had fallen to the rebels.

As the deadliest conflict of the civil war continued fifteen miles from the capital the government said it had attacked southwest of Brunete.

"The enemy displayed formidable resistance and with the aid of its aviation and artillery succeeded in foiling our advance and capturing Brunete," it said.

The rebels pressed on toward Villaneuva de la Canada, where the government asserted its forces "strengthened their positions" south of the town.

Government sources minimized the loss of Brunete, saying the insurgents won ground only at the loss of many men, and that counterattacks can be launched when "the enemy is already exhausted."

Fought Their Way Back.

The battle has surged back and forth over the little village of Brunete, with both sides throwing greater forces of men and weapons into the area than in any previous battle. The government abandoned the village once, but then said its troops fought their way back into it.

More than once during the night men engaged in hand to hand fighting, while tanks rumbled over the fields and ruins of the little town.

Government officers declared their troops reached some houses on the outskirts of Brunete. From behind barricades thrown up with the rubbish of ruined homes, the insurgents met all attempts to advance with withering fire.

North of Brunete, the government asserted that its troops, "except for minor rectifications of their lines," had been able to hold all positions.

GERMAN PLANE SHOT DOWN BY LOYALISTS; CREW OF 3 CAPTURED

MADRID, July 25.—(AP)—The government announced today that a German airplane of the most recent design had been brought down yesterday in the fighting over Brunete and its crew of three German army aviators captured. One of the Germans was severely wounded.

The plane was one of three insurgent machines downed in the air battles and the government said it was one of the ten Dornier two motored planes of the most modern type rcently sent from Germany to Spain.

Government officers quoted the captured Germans as saying that they had come to Spain as part of their military duty, flying their plane from Germany across France. According to the government version, the Germans said the Dornier planes belonged to an experimental group sent to Spain to determine how they stood up under war conditions.

Franco Dissatisfied with Aid.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 25.—According to the Daily Herald, Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of the Spanish rebels, is dissatisfied with the help he has been getting from Germany and Italy, and "very secretly, through private channels, he has sent word to certain quarters in Paris that on conditions he would be prepared to break with Rome and Berlin and dismiss his German and Italian auxiliaries."

The conditions, says the article, are:

"First—Even if nonintervention breaks down, no French or Russian assurances shall be given to Valencia.

"Second—That full equality of recognition and treatment be given the two sides.

"Third—That if he wins he will immediately be recognized as the legal ruler of Spain and be given aid in the economic reconstruction of the country."

The Daily Herald says this offer is the result of Germany's and Italy's rejection of Gen. Franco's urgent request for heavy reënforcements of men, munitions, and airplanes.

Catches Burglar in Home When Summoned by Alarm

A long time ago burglars entered the home of Joseph Spotafora above his tavern at 2929 Sheffield avenue, so Spotafora installed a burglar alarm in the flat. Last night the alarm sounded. Spotafora went upstairs with a gun and found James Richards, 19 years old, 2733 Lincoln avenue. He was taken to the nearby Sheffield avenue station, where he admitted he meant to loot the Spotafora home.

Inhalator Squad Strives in Vain to Keep Baby Alive

Inhalator squad 2, under Lieut. Louis Kammerer, worked for nearly an hour last night to keep alive a baby boy born to Mrs. Mary Coglienese, 20 years old, 2060 Polk street, in the Mother Cabrini hospital. Their work failed, the infant being pronounced dead by Dr. Alfredo Bellizzi, the attending physician.

IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY LEADER IS SEIZED BY POLICE

CORK, Irish Free State, July 25.—(AP)—Tom Barry, leader of the Irish republican army, was under arrest today after having been in hiding for more than a year. He was seized at a wedding party at a Cork hotel. Barry, chief of an extreme faction whose republicanism was too strong even for President Eamon de Valera's taste, had been sought by police since March, 1936, when Vice Admiral Henry Boyle Townshend Somerville was murdered.

TEST ROCKET TO LAY 'SKY MINES' FOR AIR DEFENSE

LONDON, July 25.—The laying of "aerial minefields" to counter raiding airplanes by means of parent rockets is now undergoing tests on one of the government's proving grounds in South Wales.

Harry Grindell-Matthews, explosives expert, is experimenting with a parent rocket capable of discharging at a height of 32,000 feet twenty bombs each tethered by a long wire to a parachute. Before reaching the ground the bombs become ineffective.

PERSONAL TAXES BASED ON FACTS, SAYS ASSESSOR

Telephone Book No Longer Used, M'Cabe Declares.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Edward J. McCabe, deputy county assessor, denied yesterday that in making 1936 personal property valuations, the office made telephone book assessments of the type which caused a storm of criticism against J. L. Jacobs, predecessor in office of Mr. McCabe's superior, Assessor John S. Clark. Protests that some bills were as much as ten times those of last year brought out Mr. McCabe's denial.

E. J. McCabe.

The telephone book assessments were so called because hundreds of thousands of names were placed on the assessment rolls from telephone listings. The actual assessments were based on average rents in the district in which the taxpayer lived, the assessor's office arguing that the average home has furnishings worth somewhat more than a year's rent. The system, however, produced numerous ludicrous incidents, particularly in gold coast districts, where valets and janitors were given the same heavy assessments entered against their wealthy employers.

Phone Notation Appears.

Mr. McCabe was questioned about a possible revival of the practice in connection with a number of tax bills, based on 1936 assessments which were approximately six times those made against the same taxpayers for 1935. Each of the bills bore a notation indicating the telephone exchange in the district where the taxpayer lived.

John Battles, head of the personal property division of the assessor's office, denied that the telephone notation meant anything. The bills, he said, were printed from addressing machine plates which have been in use for several years, and from which the exchange prefixes were never removed.

In making out the 1936 personalty rolls, Assessor Clark eliminated all assessments with a full valuation less than $400. This action cut some 465,000 personalty items from the rolls. He did so, he explained, because only about 6 per cent of the small bills were paid, and the expense of assessing and collecting this class of taxes exceeded the revenue derived therefrom.

No Arbitrary Increase, He Says.

The taxpayers who received boosts of several hundred per cent on their 1936 bills were in 1935 in the class just above the small assessments which were eliminated from the rolls. Here again Mr. McCabe entered a denial. There was no concerted effort on the part of the assessor's staf, he said, to increase arbitrarily moderate sized assessments to make up for revenue lost on the eliminated valuations.

None of the taxpayers whose bills were boosted, he found by consulting records, had filed a schedule of his personal property. As a result, he said, the assessor's staf made estimates of the property and then increased them by the 50 per cent penalty provided by law for failure to schedule.

Several of the estimate sheets showed that original estimates had been scratched out and higher figures substituted. In those instances, Mr. McCabe said, the action was taken on confidential information furnished the assessor. He refused to state the nature of the information.

Assessor Clark has obtained permission to inspect federal income tax returns in preparing personal property taxes, and made some use of them in the 1936 assessment. He plans to make more extensive use of the returns in the 1937 assessment.

Through listings of securities on which income was reported in these returns, he hopes to add millions of dollars of intangible personal property to the assessment and thereby to shift a considerable proportion of the local tax load from real estate to personal property. As a result of the elimination of the small personalty assessments for 1936, real estate is paying a slightly larger proportion of this year's tax bills than it did a year ago.

Clerks in the county treasurer's office who are receiving tax payments reported that they had received an unusual number of complaints of double assessments from taxpayers who received two personal property bills. Mr. McCabe admitted that double assessments are still carried on the books but said that Assessor Clark is bending every effort to eliminate them.

Taxpayers Listed Geographically.

The fact that personal property taxpayers are listed geographically, just as real estate is, rather than alphabetically, makes it difficult to detect double assessments. The assessor's office makes every effort to do so, and obtains all changes of address listed with the postoffice, for the purpose of keeping its records up to date and eliminating duplications.

The fact that 10 per cent of the citizens of Chicago move every year means, however, that a certain number of duplications are bound to slip through the most careful checks, Mr. McCabe asserted. A taxpayer receiving more than one bill, if he has property at only one address, is under no legal obligation to make more than one tax payment, but the duplications cause considerable confusion in keeping the tax records.

A "FAUNTLEROY"

(Story in Adjoining Column.)

Plaster model illustrating the dress of Little Lord Fauntleroy. American boys of the nineties rebelled at wearing it because it made them look like "sissies." Vivian Burnett, who died yesterday, served as the model. His mother wrote the famous book.

Original Lord Fauntleroy Dies a Hero After Rescuing Four

Manhasset, N. Y., July 25.—[Special.]—The man who once was the pet peeve of all American small boys died a hero's death today.

Vivian Burnett collapsed from heart disease at the wheel of his yawl Delight III. after rescuing four persons from an overturned sailboat and was dead when the yawl reached shore. He was 61 years old.

Most of his life he had spent in trying to live down the character his loving mother had attributed to his prototype. For Vivian Burnett served as a model for "Little Lord Fauntleroy" when his mother, Frances Hodgson Burnett, wrote the book which became world famous.

Boys of 90's Upset.

The American boys of the early nineties resented being urged to copy Fauntleroy's manners, they opposed having him held up as a model of deportment and politeness, and they bitterly rebelled at being forced into Lord Fauntleroy suits. They dreaded appearing for Sunday school in the little black velvet suits, ruffled and tucked, the wide starched collars, the flowing silk ties, and the low patent lether shoes. They led to fights and to later parental troubles.

But wear them they did, for the American mothers were in love with Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Second Son of Writer.

Mr. Burnett was the second son of the noted writer. Her masterpiece, had been an albatross to him. Speaking about the character he inspired, he once said, "You wouldn't call it a demon, but a kind of alter ego."

"I was a perfectly normal boy," he said, "I got myself just as damn dirty as the other boys. I could write a book about what Fauntleroy has done to me. I try to get away from it, but I can't."

The boy who was Fauntleroy led a strenuous life, of which the circumstances of his death were a fitting climax.

Born in Paris.

Born in Paris April 5, 1876, he spent his childhood in Europe and in Washington. At Harvard, where he was graduated with the class of '98, he made a name for himself on the track team.

Soon after he went to Denver and became a cub reporter on the Denver Republican. From Denver he went back to Washington, where he was an early columnist.

S. S. McClure hired Burnett and gave him a roving commission to report on the state of the nation to McClure's magazine. With Lincoln Steffens, Ida M. Tarbell, and others, Burnett went about the country flashing the spotlight of realistic publicity on scandal centers.

Writes Book on Mother.

In 1927 he paid the debt to his mother by writing her life story under the title of "The Romantic Lady."

Mr. Burnett only indirectly was the model for the Little Lord Fauntleroy pictures which became known throughout the world. These illustrations of the book were drawn by Reginald Bathurst Birch, an artist who now lives in New York City, from photographs of the boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett were entertaining a party of friends aboard the yawl when they saw the small sailboat overturn.

Mr. Burnett, at the helm, immediately put about and maneuvered his boat into position to pick up the members of the sailing party.

The rescue was effected and the yawl was heading for the club when Mr. Burnett collapsed at the helm.

HEALTH SERVICE HAILS CHICAGO'S SYPHILIS BATTLE

First Realistic Attack, Says U. S. Bureau.

Chicago is the first American city to attack the syphilis problem in a realistic way, Washington officials of the United States public health service were quoted as saying yesterday in an Associated Press dispatch.

"The efforts of Chicago health authorities to make a city-wide diagnosis of the syphilis problem is, so far as we know, the first time that a major disease has been attacked so intelligently and thoroughly," a statement from the office of Surgeon General Thomas Parran said.

Thousands of unsuspected cases of the disease unquestionably will be discovered, the statement added, with resultant greater chances for early cures.

Chicago Campaign Hailed.

Another official in the federal health service declared that the Chicago campaign is a shining example of what must be done by hundreds of cities throughout the country if the present drive against the plague is to be successful.

"Syphilis is the next great plague to be eliminated in the United States," he said, "and it can be eradicated much more easily than tuberculosis, which is being stamped out. We have no known definite cure for tuberculosis, but we do have a specific treatment for syphilis."

The officials said their names could not be used because of a departmental rule.

Questionnaires in Mail Today.

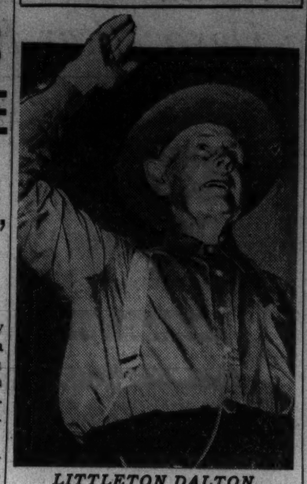
The first 250,000 of a million questionnaires to Chicagoans will be delivered in the mails today, with a few replies expected by nightfall.

The survey is to determine how many citizens would welcome a blood test, confidential and without cost to themselves, as a preliminary to the mobilizing of physicians and laboratory facilities to make the examinations.

Seek to Link Shooting and Stabbing in Same Area

Suffering from eighteen small buckshot wounds in the left leg, Benjamin Gadomski, 22 years old, 2914 Dickens avenue, was taken to the County hospital last night by two companions, who later disappeared. He was given first aid there and then removed to the Bridewell hospital. He told police a mysterious assailant shot him without cause at Ashland avenue and 18th street. Later police found Walter Dembowski, 24, 1718 Cermak road, who was slightly stabbed about the body in a row near the place of the shooting. Police are trying to determine whether the two cases are related.

Last of Dalton Boys



LITTLETON DALTON.

Broderick, Cal., July 25.—[Special.]—News accounts recently telling of the death in Los Angeles of Emmett Dalton and declaring he was the last of the Dalton boys were all wrong in the latter respect, according to Littleton Dalton of this city. And he ought to know, because, he says, he is now the only surviving member of the family of ten boys, four of whom made up the notorious Dalton gang that terrorized the middle west in the early nineties. The other six, including Littleton, lived straight, he says. Littleton is now 80 years old.

Jail 6 Boys After Stolen Bikes Are Found in Homes

Six colored boys were locked up at the Hyde Park police station last night after twelve stolen bicycles had been found in their homes. They are Arnold Bennett, 17 years old, 3751 Prairie avenue; Ernest Green, 15, of 506 East 36th street; Arthur Rhodes, 14, of 3750 South Park way; Clifford Brooks, 15, 3525 Rhodes avenue; Ferris Smith, 13, of 3532 Cottage Grove avenue, and Charles Lillard, 15, of 4331 Vincennes avenue.

GRATE MYSTERY ENDS; ARTHUR'S CAUGHT ON ONE!

This is a short story about Arthur Short, who may be glad, if his ears are burning, that he isn't crisply toasted on both sides. Mr. Short, or a colored man every one thinks is Mr. Short, took a $5 bill Saturday from Miss Flora Iliff in her rooming house at 2002 Indiana avenue. Then he vanished into the basement. Twenty policemen searched the basement but found no robber. Two stood guard overnight at the door. Yesterday Sergt. Thomas McTigue called and asked the guards if they'd looked everywhere. "Everywhere but in the furnace and the laundry sink," they told him. McTigue looked in the sink without success, but in the furnace he found Mr. Short sleeping on the grate, a $5 bill beside him. No, of course there was no fire in the furnace. That's why Mr. Short is glad.

STORE OWNER SLAYS SELF.

HOSPITAL CARE OPERATIONS LED BY TONSIL CASES

Tonsilectomies and accident victims are the most frequent cases now handled under the Plan for Hospital Care, Taylor Strawn, president, announced yesterday.

Until June 15 one out of every seven subscribers who became a patient under the group hospitalization plan was an appendicitis case, Mr. Strawn reported. Now appendectomies have dropped to one out of every ten cases, while one out of every five is a tonsilectomy and one out of every nine is an accident victim.

Berry Picker Discovers Body Hidden in Rock Pile

ST. LAURENT, Quebec, July 25.—(AP)—A hand protruding grotesquely from a pile of rocks led a blueberry picker today to the body of Hyacinthe Cote, elderly contractor. A handkerchief was found knotted about his throat and his hands were tied behind his back. Police said Cote sometimes carried considerable money. His trouser pockets were turned inside out.

YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH is precious. Layer-Cake Heat is especially hard on children. They live in the chilly lower layer of air, with only cold floors to play on. Coal or coke heating, being steady, prevents the formation of air layers in your home—keeps floors warm.

STOP-AND-GO FUELS CAUSE LAYER-CAKE HEAT

Stop-and-Go heating is costly in comfort, hazardous to health. It causes Layer-Cake Heat—that is, the formation of layers of air, hot at the head while the feet are cold. That's because, with stop-and-go fuels, furnace fires start suddenly—stop suddenly. The firebox gets cold between firings. There's no constant flow of heat, such as coal or coke provides, preventing Layer-Cake Heat.

People living in Layer-Cake Heat notice that their heads feel stuffy and overheated, while their feet are cold. No wonder they have colds!

Many are abandoning stop-and-go fuels, switching to comfortable and constant coal or coke. They get more comfort, and pay less for it. For automatic heating the new coal stokers are ideal. They fire themselves—regulate the heat in your rooms to within a degree or two of the thermostat reading—and save even more than hand-fired coal or coke! They can be applied to your present furnace at low cost.

For your family's sake, don't go through another winter with chills, headaches, and stuffy air. Buy coal or coke now from your local coal merchant. If you're not sure he's a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association, call STAte 9723.

LAYER-CAKE HEAT results when stop-and-go furnace fires allow the firebox to cool. The air in the rooms forms layers—hot, warm, and cold—so that occupants have hot heads, cold feet. These discomforts encourage colds. Coal or coke fires provide steady warmth and prevent Layer-Cake Heat.

THE LATEST IN AUTOMATIC HEATING—the coal stoker fires itself—regulates the heat in your rooms to within a degree or two of the point at which you set it, gives clean heat, and pays big dividends in fuel savings. The stoker prevents Layer-Cake Heat—and at the least possible cost.

WHEN YOU BUILD, you should consider not only your own preferences in heating, but the possible preferences of those to whom you might want to rent or sell. That's why we say, follow your architect's advice and include a storage bin for solid fuels. Then the choice is not limited to stop-and-go heating systems.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Twelve hundred boys and girls have enrolled in the massed Chicago high school band which again this summer will present one of the thrilling spectacles at the eighth Chicagoland Music Festival, to be held Saturday night, Aug. 21, in Soldiers' Field.

Capt. Howard Stube.

Sectional band rehersals will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for the players living on the north side of the city, at Lane Technical High school, Addison street and Western avenue. Wednesday morning at the same time south side players will meet at Tilden Technical High school, 4747 South Union avenue, and Thursday morning, also at 10 o'clock, west side resident participants will practice at the Austin High school, 231 North Pine street.

Stube to Be In Charge.

Capt. Howard Stube, president of the Chicago Public High Schools Band association, will be in charge, assisted by 35 Chicago school bandmasters.

A select group from the 1,200 bandsmen then will play the fourth movement, "Mardi Gras," from Ferde Grofe's descriptive suite, "Mississippi," conducted by Oscar Anderson, supervisor of instrumental music in the public schools.

Band to Be Colorful Sight.

The huge band will make a most colorful sight. The boys will be attired in dark trousers and white shirts. The girls will be dressed in dark skirts and white blouses, and the directors will wear white trousers and black coats. Preceding them will be rows of school and national colors.

Schools and their band conductors coöperating with The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in this feature of the festival, follow:

SOUTHERNERS GIVE UP THEIR FANCY TRUCKIN' FOR THE 'BIG APPLE'

Columbia, S. C., July 25.—(AP)—Now it's the "big apple" on Dixie dance floors.

From the mountains to the seacoast nimble footed southerners are "appling." The dance is a combination of the old fashioned square dance and the modern "swing."

From four to twenty persons gather in a circle on the floor as the music begins in medium tempo. Then they go through a series of fancy wiggles and rhythm steps to the call of a leader. Individuals and couples step to the circle's center and "shine."

The steps are a hodge-podge of the almost forgotten Charleston, drags, swing steps and Harlem's "truckin'" toned down now and then with the formal dignity of the Virginia reel.

University of South Carolina students got the idea for the dance from the gallery of a colored night club here when they watched the dusky dancers circle in finger snapping abandon to the rhythm of a phonograph. They copied the dance, called it the "big apple" after the name of the night club.

Start Drive for 48,000 Recruits for British Army

LONDON, July 25.—(AP)—The army league committee launched a campaign today for 47,000 recruits and 1,000 officers to build Great Britain's army to "the minimum margin of safety."

PLANS THICKET TO CHECK GLARE OF AUTOS' LAMPS

Smith Tells Scheme for Skokie Road.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Pres. Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 25.—[Special.]—Some novelties in roadside planting for utility of high speed automobile trafic are being designed by Albin Greise, landscape architect of the Illinois highway department. F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, today announced that a mile of Skokie road west of Lake Bluff, in Lake county, has been tentatively selected as a site for the experiment.

The parkway dividing the two one-way pavement, rather than having the usual groups of trees and beds of shrubs, is to be planted with a thicket that will shield all glare between opposing streams of night trafic. Stout shrubbery that will absorb impact and hold an automobile is contemplated as a substitute for conventional guard rails.

New View of Problems.

"Except for the regular rows of trees on horse and buggy roads, there was little in the way of precedent for Illinois to follow when it initiated highway planting in the fall of 1933," said Mr. Greise. "We have been using the trial and error methods for three years, and have gained a new impression of our problem.

"Formal arrangements have been abandoned in favor of designs that will blend with the general landscape, with the architect bearing in mind at all times that he is developing a picture to be viewed through windshields at high speeds."

Plans Row of Trees.

The program this fall, Mr. Smith further announced, will also include a mile of mature trees to demonstrate to today's drivers what their children will see along the 2,846 miles of Illinois highway that have been planted in the last four years at a cost of $703,387. A site tentatively selected for this demonstration is on Ill. 123 just south of the New Salem state park.

35 ARE RESCUED BY COAST GUARDS IN LAKE SQUALLS

Racing over storm-swept Lake Michigan, coast guard crews rescued no fewer than 35 persons in seven boats that had been disabled or overturned by squalls along Chicago's shore line yesterday afternoon and last night.

Three young men in a canoe were saved as a fourth, Reid Carlson, 23 years old, of 10509 Avenue G, was swimming 200 yards to the Calumet harbor lighthouse to summon aid. Life Guards Louis Shemerdiak and Louis Nickles of the 79th street beach rowed a mile and half to rescue two youths clinging to an overturned boat off 84th street.

GIVE AND TAKE

By CALEB

A LOYAL former employe of our store recently departed this earth at a good ripe age. His funeral sermon was preached by a minister who knew something of the world.

In speaking of the man whose spirit had passed on, he said in effect: This man came from the rugged farm lands of New England. He had been reared by and among honorable people. He came to Chicago. Within a year he entered the employ of Marshall Field & Company. There he remained for thirty-five years—until ill health required his departure from the business. He was loyal to that firm and to its aims. We all partake somewhat of the atmosphere in which we live. We are all influenced greatly by our environment.

Mr. M—— worked among beautiful things and among people who had a high regard for truth, beauty, and goodness. While he made his contribution to the business, that business was making its contribution to him, helping him to grow in stature of soul and in trueness of character. It is worth a great deal to work for a truly fine organization.

IT is indeed true that individuals can hardly subscribe to one set of principles in their personal living while they are expected to subscribe to another set during their working hours.

One of the most regrettable things which can occur in the life of a man or woman is that he or she be required by work to stoop to pettiness or sham, insincerity or dishonesty.

We believe all old employes should be able to say: "I have never, in all the years of my connection, been expected by the management to do anything which I could feel was low or mean. Moreover, I know it is the demand of the business that I refrain from compromising the company's ideals on my own initiative, if I were willing to do so."

There is a give and take when "good fellows get together." When a high-minded business is manned by high-minded people, each gains from the other.

SEE ROOSEVELT PLANS PERILED BY PARTY SPLIT

Bitterness Is Holding Up Legislation.

governors beat a hasty retreat. Then for the first time was there visible reason to infer that the President had forfeited the popular mandate he thought he possessed.

To the extent that the President's stock has gone down, the Vice President's has gone up. Vice President Garner has suddenly become the great man of the Democratic party. He overshadows the President—at least on Capitol Hill, where decisions are being made that will determine the future of the administration and of the party. Nothing like it has ever happened before and the elders of the party are completely bewildered.

A Vice President is supposed to be seen and not heard. Doubtless Mr. Garner fulfills the specifications so far as the public record goes. He says little in public, but in private what he says and does is shaping the destiny of the nation at this moment.

Barkley Pushes Program.

Democratic Leader Barkley returned from a week-end cruise with the President tonight prepared to push a program of "desired" bills, including wage and hour legislation, a farm bill, housing subsidies, reorganization of the administrative branch, and a measure to plug up loopholes in the tax laws.

But neither the President nor Democratic Leader Barkley will determine what congress will do in the remainder of this session. Vice President Garner will do that. He will decide what bills will be passed and what bills will be shelved. He will decide how much longer this session is to continue and whether congress is to recess till October or adjourn sine die till January. The indications are that Garner is disposed to jettison most of the legislation on the President's program and speed the adjournment of this session within the next two or three weeks.

The prospect is that both the farm bill and the wage and hour bill will be put in mothballs till the next session. The only bill measurably assured of passage is that providing for procedural reform in the courts, shorn of the court packing provisions. Tax legislation and administrative reorganization are more than likely to go over to the next session.

The eclipse of the President by the Vice President, extraordinary as it is, has developed from the repudiation by his party of Mr. Roosevelt's headstrong drive to subjugate the Supreme court. Unable to stomach this attack upon the court, Mr. Garner effaced himself from the scene, departing for Texas before the court bill reached the senate floor. While he was away Democratic Leader Robinson died and the court bill was doomed to defeat. By the ineluctable logic of circumstances and events Garner was the one person upon whom devolved the responsibility of attempting to heal the wounds in the party inflicted by the President, to bring order out of chaos in congress and to reunite the party for the 1938 and 1940 elections. He responded to this call and is working overtime on the task.

DR. STANLEY HIGH RESIGNS AS HEAD OF GOOD NEIGHBOR BODY

New York, July 25.—(AP)—The Good Neighbor league, organized in March, 1936, chiefly to promote the reëlection of President Roosevelt, tonight announced the resignation of its founder and executive director, Dr. Stanley High, former administration adviser.

Dr. High wrote a magazine article last December on the President's plans, which was followed quickly by a White House statement disavowing presidential "spokesmen."

The league, which was continued after the last election for the announced purpose of "breaking down racial, social, economic, and general class prejudice," said Dr. High was resigning "in order to devote himself more largely to literary and lecture work and to other personal matters."

Dr. High will be succeeded by Dr. Charles Stelzle of New York, Presbyterian church worker and writer.

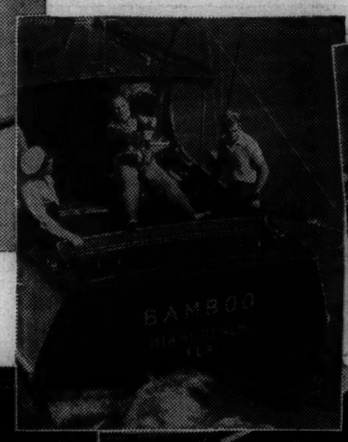
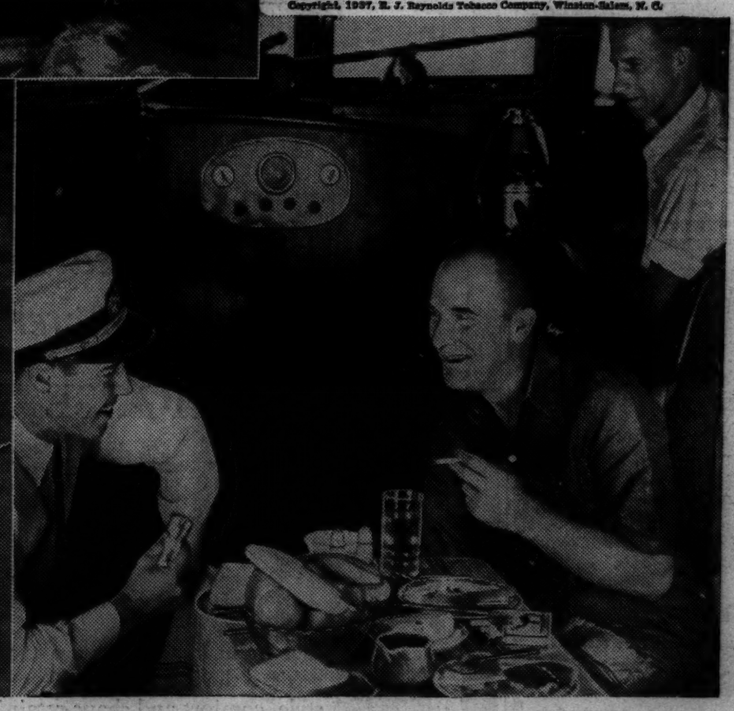
The battle is on—Erl Roman, famous sportsman, vs. 600 lbs. of savage, fighting blue marlin!



Copyright, 1937, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

How would your nerves stand up to two hours of this?

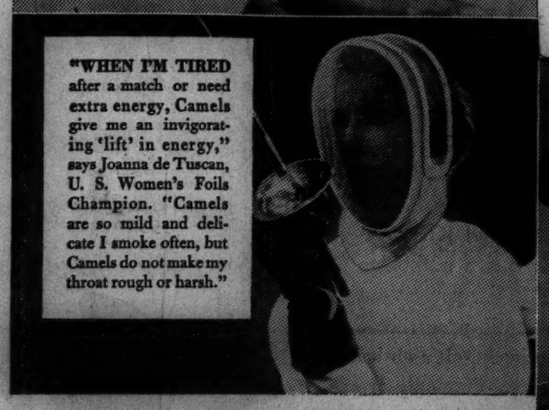
ERL ROMAN LANDS A BIG ONE!



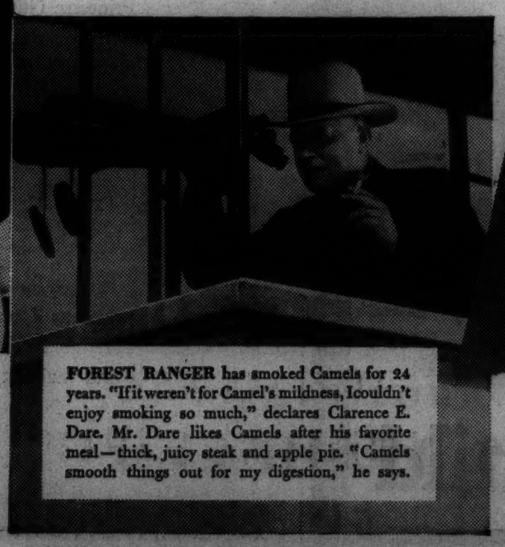
AS the Miami, Florida, "Herald" said of Erl Roman's titanic struggle with the big fish (above): "The battle was tough. Erl had his hands full staying in the fishing chair." But a sporting spirit and healthy nerves kept Roman going. After a 2-hour fight, he landed the second-largest blue marlin ever taken on rod and reel. Mr. Roman, a game angler, considers Camel the preferable cigarette for steady smoking. "Healthy nerves are necessary for keeping on top of things. Camels don't get on my nerves," Erl says. Above, right, Mr. Roman enjoys good digestion and a Camel after his tense fight. "I make it a point," he says, "to smoke Camels with my meals and after 'for digestion's sake.'"

Smooth Blending of Costly Tobaccos. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos, in a matchless blend. A mild, fine-flavored cigarette for steady smoking that does not rasp the throat or upset the nerves.

AQUAPLANE EXPERT. Miss Gloria Wheeden is a typical American outdoor girl. "Yes, I smoke," she says. "Like all my crowd, I enjoy Camels—especially at mealtimes. I give my appetite full rein—smoke Camels—and enjoy a sense of well-being."



"WHEN I'M TIRED after a match or need extra energy, Camels give me an invigorating 'lift' in energy," says Joanna de Tuscan, U. S. Women's Foils Champion. "Camels are so mild and delicate I smoke often, but Camels do not make my throat rough or harsh."



FOREST RANGER has smoked Camels for 24 years. "If it weren't for Camel's mildness, I couldn't enjoy smoking so much," declares Clarence E. Dare. Mr. Dare likes Camels after his favorite meal—thick, juicy steak and apple pie. "Camels smooth things out for my digestion," he says.

REVEALS FEARS OF CONGRESS ON ROOSEVELT'S BILL

Secret Hearing Discloses Reorganization Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—The fears of congress concerning President Roosevelt's bill to acquire for himself carte blanche authority to reorganize the government clearly were revealed today when secret hearings on the measure were published.

Sends Special Message.

Mr. Roosevelt last January sent up to congress a special message recommending a bill which would bring many independent agencies under his thumb and vastly increase his powers. He announced it was part of an economy plan, but a study disclosed that no federal agencies were to be abolished and the maximum saving would be $30,000,000.

A joint congressional committee was appointed in congress to examine the measure. It was headed by the late Joseph T. Robinson, senate majority leader, and Representative John J. Cochran [D., Mo.]. Hearings were held behind closed doors in February, March, and April, but the evidence was not released until today.

Suspicious of Proposal.

Even Senator Robinson hesitated to accept the President's proposals, the hearings showed. He and other members of the committee particularly were suspicious of the proposal in the bill to abolish the controler general's check on administrative expenditures and the proposal to replace the civil service commission with a civil service administrator responsible to the President.

One result of the published hearings, it was admitted by Democratic leaders, will be to crush any possibility of action on most of the President's reorganization schemes at this session of congress.

HEROIC CIVILIAN GETS NEW BLOOD IN LIFE BATTLE

Lige Debowski, heroic civilian who was shot five times July 17 in a battle with two bandits whom he fatally wounded, was given a second blood transfusion yesterday when he failed to rally from an operation Saturday night. Another transfusion is to be given him today, according to Dr. Karl Meyer, chief surgeon at the County hospital.

Infection developed in a wound in Debowski's thigh, necessitating an opening to provide drainage. It was feared that a gas gangrene might develop.

The two robbers killed by Debowski were George Carson and Edmund Blut. Debowski's action in disarming Carson and shooting both bandits while Blut was firing at him made the hero the object of public solicitude, and nearly $1,000 has been contributed for the support of his wife and two children while he is in the hospital.

It was said at the hospital yesterday that several offers of jobs await Debowski on his recovery.

Two paroled robbers and a police character were seized last night by police who found an automatic pistol, a blackjack, and two rolls of adhesive tape in their car at Grand avenue and Clark street. The prisoners were Joseph Esposito, 23 years old, of 811 South Marshfield avenue, a parolee from Joliet penitentiary; Nick Rizzo, 23 years old, of 904 South Ashland avenue, a parolee from Pontiac reformatory, and Alphonse Spagnolo, 25 years old, of 1826 Washburne avenue, who has served several terms in the Bridewell.

THREE ATTACKED IN JOLIET

Joliet was the scene of an intensive manhunt yesterday for a colored rapist who attacked three women in 24 hours and attempted to attack a fourth. Three of the outrages occurred early yesterday on the east side of Joliet.

A girl of 15 was overpowered and raped on her way to morning church services. Another girl, 16, was pursued to her door by the rapist, but she barricaded herself and escaped him. A few minutes later the rapist invaded the home of a young married couple and attacked the wife while her husband was absent.

Saturday morning the young widowed mother of two children was attacked by a colored man near her home. James Jones, 38, colored, was arrested and tentatively identified in this attack.

Two Sisters, Man Killed by Train on Trestle

St. Louis, Mo., July 25.—(AP)—A family berry-picking expedition ended in tragedy today when two sisters and a brother-in-law of one of the women were killed on a Frisco railway trestle 20 miles south of here. They were Mrs. Joseph Brown, 46; Mrs. John Wolff, 54, and Jack Brown, 38. Eddie Wolff, 22, son of Mrs. Wolff, saved himself by clinging to the end of a tie as the train sped by.

EGYPT ACCLAIMS FAROUK, HOME TO ASCEND THRONE

Festivity Begins; Boy King Takes Oath Thursday.

(Picture on back page.)

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, July 25.—(AP)—A week of festivities such as the old valley of the Nile has not seen before in modern times began today as 17 year old King Farouk I. came home to ascend his throne next Thursday.

Map of Egypt, showing Cairo, where boy king will take oath.

Great crowds cheered wildly as the liner El Nil entered the harbor here, bringing Egypt's first independent monarch in four centuries, his mother, and four sisters back from a five month vacation tour of Europe.

Thursday in the parliament building in Cairo King Farouk will take the oath of office which will signalize commencement of his active reign.

Throngs Cheer Royal Party.

According to European ideas he will not be 18 until next Feb. 11, but the Moslem calendar and custom will make him 18 on July 29 and therefore qualified to rule.

Farouk will not be crowned as European monarchs are — although he was an interested spectator at the recent coronation of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain. Egypt, long under domination of foreign powers, has no crown. A procession through the streets of Cairo and the oath taking before parliament will constitute the ceremonies of accession.

Thousands Flocking to Cairo.

Cruisers escorted the El Nil as the royal ship entered port today. Airplanes droned overhead, guns boomed a 21-gun salute and sirens shrieked from ships in the harbor. The royal party drove through cheering throngs to the station and entrained for Cairo.

The king was to go to his country palace at Koubbeh, near Cairo, to remain until his investiture.

Thousands of visitors were pouring into flag draped Cairo.

Successor to the ancient pharaohs, Farouk is the first independent ruler of Egypt since the Mameluke kings were crushed by the Ottoman empire more than 400 years ago.

PEACE IN BUFFALO TRUCK STRIKE NOW DECLARED HOPELESS

Buffalo, N. Y., July 25.—[Special.]—Prospects for settlement of a city-wide food handlers' strike that is interfering seriously with distribution of supplies was declared to be hopeless tonight by the Rev. John P. Boland, state labor relations board chairman.

The end of a 24 hour truce temporarily preventing a further spread of the six day strike of 1,000 truck drivers approached as the priest called together union officials, packing house executives and food merchants.

Closed shop demands of the American Federation of Labor and Committee for Industrial Organization continued to block the movement of food from 44 wholesale grocery houses.

Grocery stores reported their shelves gradually were being depleted of stock. Many city residents with automobiles were motoring to the country to buy butter, eggs, and vegetables.

MEN AGREE TO RETURN TO STEEL OWNED MINES

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 25.—(AP)—Patrick J. Fagan, president of district No. 5 of the United Mine Workers of America, said today that all strike-bound coal mines of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and the Bethlehem Steel corporation probably would resume normal operations this week.

Fagan added that the strikes were called off "on the basis of a tentative agreement by the management to reëstablish the status quo for miners while new contracts are being negotiated."

Under this agreement, Fagan asserted, the men would return to work at the same wage level as prevailed before the walkout.

The strikes, which affected more than 6,500 miners in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, were ordered by John L. Lewis, president of the mine union.

MOTORIST SLAYS PEACEMAKER IN TRAFIC BATTLE

A quarrel among four motorists over trafic rules early yesterday led to the fatal stabbing of a bystander who attempted to act as peacemaker. The victim of the stabbing was Charles Halford, 33 years old, 13301 South Western avenue, Blue Island, a machinist.

The Morgan Park police were holding Leon Clemons, 21 years old, colored, who admitted that he did the stabbing, and his brother, Henry, 23 years old, both of 137th street and Monticello avenue, Robbins. Search was being made for two white men who took part in the argument.

According to the stories told Detective Thomas Sweeney, the two Clemonses were driving in Western avenue when they stopped for a trafic signal at 111th street. The two white men drove alongside their car and accused them of improper driving.

The four then got out of their machines and began a fight when Halford, who was nearby, attempted to intercede. The younger Clemons drew a knife and stabbed Halford.

STEEL WORKERS IN EAST CHICAGO GET PAY TODAY

East Chicago steel workers will have their first big payday today since the recently ended steel strike began on May 26. More than 12,000 employés of the Inland Steel company at East Chicago, will receive checks totaling more than $500,000.

On Friday there will be another big pay day when 7,000 workers of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company will draw checks for more than $400,000.

East Chicago merchants look forward today to a return of normal business.

RUSSIA STARTS 'PURGING' PRESS OF STALIN FOES

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, July 25.—The soviet purge moved with full force today into the field of journalism. An editorial announcement in the newspaper Pravda said that "enemies must be mercilessly thrown out of newspapers, magazines and publishing houses" to purify the press which Dictator Josef Stalin has called "the strongest and sharpest weapon of the communist party."

Individual newspapers—and in Moscow every newspaper is an organ of the soviet or of the ruling communist party—recently have been denounced and their editors dismissed as "enemies of the people" for allegedly deliberate typographical errors and other "sins" attributed officially to Trotzkyist or other forms of wrecking.

Several once famous journalists are now in prison or have disappeared.

C. I. O. SECRETARY FACES TRIAL IN ASSAULT CASE

Covington, Va., July 26.—(AP)—Ray Beatty, secretary of Local 2214, Synthetic Yarn federation, a C. I. O. affiliate, will go on trial tomorrow in Alleghany county Circuit court as the second of 16 union members charged with assault and battery while a member of a mob.

The indictments grew out of a disorder July 7 at the plant of the Industrial Rayon corporation when a group of workers attempted to return to the strike-closed plant. Six persons were injured.

A Highland county jury last night convicted Glenn Perkins, first of the indicted men to go on trial, and fixed his punishment at four years in the penitentiary.

GOVERNOR EARLE DEFENDS THEFT OF COAL IN PA.

Bootleggers Steal Forty Millions Yearly.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Philadelphia, Pa., July 25.—[Special.]—Fifteen thousand bootleg coal miners daily are digging the grave of the ailing anthracite industry here in eastern Pennsylvania and Gov. George H. Earle does not propose to disturb their illegal labors.

In an interview the governor declared that he would not attempt to enforce the laws of the commonwealth by "armed intervention" or any other positive action. He insisted the bootleggers had a "moral" right to a living by digging coal, although they were poaching on the property of some one else.

And besides, said Gov. Earle, the people were even more in sympathy with coal bootleggers than with the rum runners of prohibition days.

Anarchy Is Encouraged.

Thus anarchy fostered by the strange policies of a state administration that refuses to function as a government, continues to grow in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania.

Coal bootlegging began during depression years when the operators were forced to close many of their collieries. The people were told to go into the pits and take out enough coal for their use and for a little pin money on the side.

With the tacit approval of the state régime the practice gradually grew to outright bootlegging, a vested interest that politicians respect and operators fear.

The illicit trafic has grown to such proportions that it is estimated approximately 5 million tons of coal valued at 40 million dollars will be stolen from deposits belonging to private companies and permitted to flow into the market to compete with fuel mined by honest labor this year.

Sales Heavy in New York.

The bootleg product is trucked through the mountains and hills to cities in New Jersey, New York and New England. New York City alone took 500,000 tons of this coal last year.

Bootleg coal amounts to about 10 per cent of all the anthracite mined and sold annually. This margin raises havoc with the legitimate trade because of cut prices which the illicit vender offers. The bootlegger pays low wages and evades taxes. He does not carry workmen's compensation insurance, and so he undersells the private operator by $2 a ton.

The bootleggers have banded themselves together into the Independent Anthracite Miners' association, an alliance built up by communist agitators and a successful entrant in Pennsylvania politics, along with the United Mine Workers under John L. Lewis and the C. I. O.

Refuse to Indict.

Grand juries have refused to indict for the most flagrant offenses against the coal companies. The bootleggers have defied the companies to stop their operations, threatening millions of property damage in reprisal.

Anarchy prevails because the coal companies are denied the right of employing private police on the one hand, while on the other the Earle administration refuses to grant protection, the right of every taxpayer.

Negotiations for the reopening of the mines have broken down repeatedly because the officers of the companies could gain no assurance they would have adequate protection and that they would regain the bootleg market. They feared that for every abandoned mine they took over, several bootleg holes would spring into operation nearby.

Principally the operators have no confidence in the present administration's ability to straighten out the mess fairly for all. Gov. Earle's closing of the Bethlehem Steel plant at Johnstown after strikers had been unable to halt its operation is an incident too fresh in their memory.

Gov. Earle appointed a commission to look into the situation last winter, but its members split hopelessly. Reporting to the governor on May 19 the three plans were advanced, two for government ownership of mines in one form or another, while the third was opposed to government ownership.

Subsequently the governor discussed the situation with President Roosevelt at the White House and is considering state operation of hard coal properties eventually. Under this proposal the coal companies would lease the lands to the state at a nominal fee and would receive royalties on each ton mined. The operators are violently opposed.

Can't Enforce Law.

Meanwhile the status quo will be maintained, according to Gov. Earle's views as expressed here in Philadelphia, where he came for several conferences on other matters before leaving on a European trip this week.

"Enforce the law? Why, I won't have Pennsylvania soldiers killing Pennsylvania citizens," said Earle. "You can't enforce a law when the people are 100 per cent against it. We tried it with prohibition when 75 per cent of the people were opposed.

"Suppose we did send down 2,500 National Guard troops to patrol 2,500 bootleg holes. The cost to the state would be about $500,000 a month. In two months' time, say, the state would have spent a million dollars. Then the troops would be withdrawn. The bootleggers would go right back into the holes.

Would Fight Troops.

"Everybody I've talked to in that area is opposed to armed intervention. Why, one clergyman said he would lead his congregation against the troops if they were sent in."

The governor said he had called a meeting of all interested parties for Sept. 27 at Harrisburg, where another attempt at settlement would be made. Failing to reach an agreement, Earle said, he would recommend "the most drastic legislation."

Although he did not expand on his plans, it is known that one proposal is the nationalization of the mines.

Earle admitted that the coal was being extracted illegally from the property of the companies, but he inveighed against the operators for assuming "no moral obligation" in the situation.

All of the workable anthracite in the western hemisphere lies buried in the hills of seven counties in eastern Pennsylvani.

Large companies own 85 per cent of the land.

Just before the five month strike of 1925, the market for anthracite touched its post-war peak at 90 million tons annually. The strike cost the industry its New England market and from then on rival fuels, such as oil and gas, cut deeper and deeper. Now the production is about 50 million tons and employment has dropped from 158,000 to 99,000 miners.

NEW BRIDGE OVER THE MISSISSIPPI

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

New suspension bridge between Moline, Ill., and Bettendorf, Ia., constructed with an allotment of $1,527,400 from the Public Works administration. It replaces bridge at Davenport, a few miles away.

No Trafic Jams

Davenport, Ia., July 25.—[Special.]—The new suspension bridge at Moline, Ill., replacing the old combination railroad and highway bridge here, will end trafic jams caused by lifting of the span for river boats. Most boats passing up and down the Mississippi river will pass under the structure, which has a clearance of 60 feet above high water, making it unnecessary for the span to be lifted.

AMOS PINCHOT BLASTS PROGRAM OF ROOSEVELT

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—Amos Pinchot, liberal leader who broke with the Roosevelt administration last year, declared in an open letter to President Roosevelt, made public today, that the three major measures he has sent to congress since his reëlection would, if enacted, "throw the country into Fascism in a fortnight."

The lawyer and publicist referred to the executive reorganization bill, the Black-Connery wages and hours bill, and the Supreme court bill.

"In short, they would wholly change the character of government and industry and put both under the personal domination of one man—namely: yourself," said the letter.

Mr. Pinchot charged that the President in his letter of July 15 to Senator Barkley made "a plea for one-man government" that was "a repudiation of government by the representatives of the people."

All the 1,600 employés, from the clowns and trainmen to the men and women on the flying trapeze, now belong to the American Federation of Actors, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, according to Sam W. Gumpertz, vice president and general manager of the show.

LABOR PROGRESS BEFORE C. I. O.

The department of labor was created to supply comprehensive and dependable facts about the condition of the American workman and his family. For 50 years the department and its predecessor, the bureau of labor, have been collecting data and issuing reports. An inquiring American workman can therefore ascertain from government reports how labor has fared under the wage system which is so bitterly denounced by Mr. Lewis and his C. I. O. organizers.

Summary information is available in the United States Monthly Labor Review. It is an official publication of the department of labor and is prepared under the direction of the United States commissioner of labor statistics. On page 718 of the Labor Review for March, 1936, there is a table which shows how the wages per hour for labor in the United States have fluctuated over a long period of years. Taking as 100 the average for the years 1923 to 1928, the figure is 15 for the year 1840; 18 for the year of the outbreak of the civil war; 31 for the big prosperity boom before the panic of 1873; 31 also for the year of the first McKinley-Bryan campaign; 46 for the year of the outbreak of the world war; 73 during the labor shortage of the world war; 105 for 1929; 80 for 1933, the bottom of the depression, and 90 for 1934, the last year for which figures are given.

Thus the pay of the average American workman is nearly twice as high as his father's, three times as high as his grandfather's, and six times as high as his great-grandfather's. Search all history and scour the corners of the earth and you will not find an advance similar to that which the common man has had under the American wage system.

The official figures show that wages were reduced during the depression by 20 per cent on the average. A reaction of 20 per cent after a rise of 500 per cent does not suggest exploitation. By 1934, previous to the wage increases of the last three years, 40 per cent of the reduction put into effect during the depression had been restored. By the beginning of 1937, at the outset of the C. I. O. drive, practically all of the cuts had been restored.

This marvelous achievement is going steadily forward if the American government and the American system of free enterprise continue. If the C. I. O. succeeds in its purpose to create a dictatorship, the steady rise in the standard of living of the American workman will be at an end. The kind of a dictatorship which Mr. Lewis seeks to create in the United States exists already in a number of European countries. The level of wages in these countries was low even before the dictators seized control. Since then the wage rates have declined persistently. Living standards have declined abroad while they were being advanced here under the American system. Labor conditions under dictatorships are not such as should commend the C. I. O. to American workmen.

OUR POWDER KEG IN THE FAR EAST.

High Commissioner Paul McNutt, now on the Philippine station, has not taken long to get himself in hot water. The former governor of Indiana says he is innocent. In a recent speech in Manila he said something which could be quoted in the Filipino newspapers as a statement that "democracy in the Philippines is only a matter of form and not of substance."

The politicians and publishers, if not the people, of the new commonwealth didn't like it and made much of it. Commissioner McNutt, after conference with Manila publishers, interpreted the speech as saying: "The establishment of a frontier post which flies the banner of freedom would be an empty victory unless there is complete, sincere adherence to democratic constitutional principles. Homage is not enough. Formal acceptance is not sufficient. Nothing short of the substance of democracy will satisfy those responsible for the independence program or give validity to the enterprise."

The publishers still have their tongues in their cheeks and Commissioner McNutt's interpretation is thought to bear the evidences of skilful work on the part of an expert staf of learned clerks. Public speaking is a dangerous indulgence for American representatives abroad. It was for Mr. Bingham in London when he declared his own private defense alliance with his British hosts, uniting the American and British navies.

In the Philippines the United States, in the transition period in which the Philippine commonwealth is growing from conditional to complete independence, seems to be sitting on a powder keg with a lighted fuse burning in the distance. We may be able to get off before the works blow up and again we may not. We still have a large measure of responsibility, with a much decreased measure of control. And the far east these days is no place for an innocent to be anywhere near an ammunition dump. No doubt if the worst can happen we will see that it does.

THE MYSTERY OF RUSSIA.

The internal affairs of soviet Russia are now causing the widest international speculation. What is happening to the society, economic order, and government Lenin set up in the hope of a Marxian perfectibility for the human race may be of the largest consequence to the rest of the world, and little reliable information can be obtained as to the causes of what is so sketchily reported.

The latest report coming from Warsaw, where the Rumanian and Polish governments have been having a love feast, is that the dissolution of the soviet federation may be impending. The White soviet republic of the Ukraine was forced into the U. S. S. R. against its will. This rich portion of Russia has always been one of the reluctant sisters in the soviet paradise. Recently it was the scene of one of Stalin's most vigorous purges, a purge explainable by the rumors that the Ukraine was the object of German plotting with Russian conspirators.

The military areas of Siberia must be full of conspiracy, dissension, and revolution against Stalin if the numerous executions reported day by day, merely as to the number killed, are justified by facts and conditions and are not to be attributed to the savagery of an Asiatic dictator ridding himself of every character who appears in his dreams as a dangerous enemy.

Russia may not be dissolving into a number of smaller states but it is, without doubt, either in transition or in revolution, or both.

There are, for broad observation, three parties in Russia which in the American political system could live together. One was represented by Kamenev and Zinoviev, who were executed in August last year. Another was represented by Piatakov, Radek, and others, most of whom were executed in January. The third, composed of the conservative men of the Marxians, was represented by Bukharin and Rykov, who for many weeks have been in the custody of the secret police and the prosecuting attorney. The latest word about them was that their trial would be in August. The prolongation of their confinement is explainable reasonably by the supposition that the prosecutor has not yet been able to get the confessions he needs.

Trotzky, the exile, who has been at Coyoacan under the guard of the Mexican government, is reported to have disappeared on a hunting and fishing trip. Private reports from Mexico City say that since Dr. Dewey's commission of inquiry gave him a hearing in April he has been guarded more carefully than before by the Cardenas police.

If Stalin's Russian union is on the point of dissolution it will be because the revolutionists have been successful in alienating sufficient numbers of the Russian farmers and workers in the Red army in certain sections, although they have been unsuccessful in finding a common cause with each other against the dictator.

If a defection in the Red army of serious nature occurs the world may well be prepared for an attack by Hitler and Japan. Trotzky, who is the best informed and most intelligent commentator upon the present state of affairs, says that Stalin's burocracy may, for its selfish interests, be returning to the petty bourgeoisie status of such a state as France, with its admixture of communism and radicalism. He thinks also that Stalin may be headed for the combination of capitalism and fascism as under Hitler's socialist totalitarian state. He thinks that Stalin might be removed by an uprising of the workers and peasants, led by some true Marxist devoted to the original purposes of Lenin. He does not exclude the complete demolition of the structure in a great international war, in which the soviets, unsupported by revolutions in Germany, Italy, and Japan, would be destroyed by the powerful capitalistic world.

The secrecy in which the purges are conducted, the suspicion and dread everywhere noted in Russia—all this has bewildered even the diplomatic representatives of other countries who are on the scene.

It is almost a certainty that no great upheaval in Russia, whatever its causes, motives, and consequences may be, can take place without affecting a large part of the world. Russia is a disturbance to some nations and a tempting prize of war to others. Apparently it is hopelessly divided or hopelessly terrified. It is under ruthless dictatorship and is an exhibit of continuing terrorism. Before it finds its angle of repose it must profoundly influence other nations and the course of world affairs.

Editorial of the Day

STRIKE DETERRENT.

[Indianapolis News.]

Contentions involving some of the railroads and the organizations of their employés have inspired predictions of disputes which might result in railroad strikes. But the chance of a railroad strike—except perhaps a short suspension of service here and there in defiance of the law and against orders of the unions—is very small. Today the roads and railroad unions are operating under the 1922 act, as revised, which forbids railroad strikes without a period set apart for deliberation under favorable conditions.

Under this law a railroad union whose members believe that they can obtain their ends only by striking first refers the question to the membership. All members in good standing have the right to vote to strike or to vote to abide by the decisions of their leaders in conciliation or arbitration agreements. If the vote favors a strike the date is set. A national mediation board provided under the law then takes jurisdiction. It seeks to bring the operators and union members together in an agreement. If it fails it so reports to the President, who names a board of three members to take all the evidence in the case and report to him. Within thirty days public opinion, formed on the basis of the report to the President, is expected to manifest itself. At the end of the thirty days, and not until then, may the men lawfully walk out.

The plan is accepted by the brotherhoods, which are affiliated neither with the A. F. of L. nor the C. I. O., because of a sincere desire to avoid strikes. The early days of the railroad unions were marked by more strike violence than anything known in recent years. They affiliated with the Knights of Labor in a "one big union" movement, and lost ground. Later they followed Debs, and again lost ground. They found that they gained nothing by the torch and club. Out of this experience grew their skill in negotiation, their recognition of their responsibility to the people for continuity of railroad service, and their strength in negotiation. They abandoned the quick strike because it was costly to them. And in turning to a period of compulsory deliberation they have set an example that should be pondered by other labor organizations.

DRUGS THAT DECREASE WHITE CELLS.

LAST week we described a disease of the blood known as leukemia, in which so many white cells are poured into the circulation that they seriously interfere with the nutrition of the body. In fact, they behave almost as though they were malignant products.

This discussion has to do with the opposite condition, namely, too few leucocytes. Normally there should be about 7,000 per cubic millimeter. But in the disease known as agranulocytosis or by another long name, granulocytopenia, the total of these circulating elements in the blood drops to 1,000 or even a few hundred.

The cause is rather generally understood to be the effect of certain toxic drugs, most of which belong to the pain relieving group. Women, particularly, will take a few doses of one of these substances for menstrual disorders or headache and will repeat the procedure at the next ensuing period. The number of chemicals now held responsible is sizable and pain destroyers should be viewed with suspicion by many patients. The preparations in question are derived from coal tar and chemically are built upon the benzene nucleus.

A few years ago 172 cases were traced directly to compounds used to combat arthritis or to produce sleep and, in a few cases, to reduce weight. It has been estimated that more than 2,500 deaths in the United States have resulted in the last five year period from this disease.

The curious thing about it is that every one is not susceptible. One thousand persons may use these medicinals and but 10 or 20 may develop agranulocytosis. What is the factor of danger to those affected or of safety to those unaffected? This question cannot be answered categorically. One may take amidopyrine, for example, for months or years without the slightest trouble, when suddenly signs of sensitivity with a drop in the white cells will appear. Others may use the same medicine for but a few weeks, with the onset of ulcerations within the throat that are characteristic of the difficulty. Still others will not be bothered in the slightest degree, regardless of the quantity consumed.

The symptoms which accompany a marked reduction in leucocytes occur chiefly in women past middle life, although no age or sex is exempt. I have seen many cases in younger persons, and some, despite all known remedies, proceeded steadily to a fatal termination. In addition to the low white cell count there is marked prostration and, as a rule, painful and foul ulcers become manifest in the mouth, throat, esophagus, and on other mucous membrane surfaces.

The first principle in treatment is to stop taking all suspected drugs. The next is to give blood transfusions repeatedly in an effort to bolster up the missing granulocytes [granule containing white cells]. The administration of bone marrow, salvarsan, and liver extract have all been recommended. No single specific, however, has been discovered, although a product called pentnucleotide has been reported as helpful in certain cases.

A woman aged 66 first complained of sore throat and general aching throughout the body. When examined, the temperature was found to be 101 degrees F. and the throat distress seemed to be out of all proportion to the general appearance of the patient. She had been using allonal tablets for insomnia. A count of the white cells showed only 2,750 and no granule cells whatsoever. Pentnucleotide reinforced with liver injections brought satisfactory results. The patient fortunately made a complete recovery and the cells returned to normal after about six weeks.

We must recognize that there are certain medicines which influence adversely the production of special blood cells. No one of these compounds should be used constantly or regularly without the precaution of blood counts to check their effects. Fortunately we do not face the hopelessness presented by leukemia. At any rate we know how to avoid the disease in those individuals who are susceptible.

WAX IN EAR.

A. B. C. writes: I think one of my ears has accumulated wax for I cannot hear very well with that ear. Is there anything I can do myself? Is there any danger that it will harden so that it cannot be removed?

REPLY.

If the mass is soft syringing with warm water will remove it. A five per cent solution of sodium bicarbonate in glycerin and water is sometimes dropped into the ear several times daily to soften the material before syringing. When the wax is very hard and firmly fixed within the canal it is probably best not to attempt to remove it yourself but to consult the family physician, who has the necessary instruments for extraction.

PAIN IN LEFT CHEST.

M. L. B. writes: Almost every day I have pains in my left chest. These come and go. When I sit in one position too long the ache starts in my chest. Otherwise I feel good. I have gained in weight during the last year. What is the cause of my pains?

REPLY.

If an examination by your physician does not reveal a diseased heart, the pain on your left chest may be due to muscle cramp, intercostal neuralgia, neuritis, or arthritis. If you are nearing your sixtieth birthday, have an electrocardiogram, to rule out distress of heart origin.

CYSTIC GOITER.

X. Y. Z. writes: I have a cystic goiter. Metabolism test is 7 plus and pulse 88. Is operation indicated?

REPLY.

Not unless other symptoms are sufficiently severe. Sometimes these growths are removed for cosmetic reasons or because they are enlarging and likely to interfere with breathing. There is some tendency for a cystic goiter to become toxic. Your metabolic rate is within the normal range.

SLUGGISH KIDNEYS.

M. A. R. writes: My kidneys have very little action. Please prescribe something to stimulate an excessive flow. Is there anything better than tea or coffee?

REPLY.

If your kidneys are functioning poorly, you should see your physician. Tea and coffee and frequent hot baths are good stimulants for minor defects, but may not be adequate remedies for your trouble.

VALIDITY OF CROWN POINT MARRIAGES.

Chicago, July 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it true, as stated in a Voice of the People letter printed July 15, that the law passed in 1915 known as the marriage evasion act makes all marriages performed in Crown Point, Ind., after 1915 null and void if the parties return to live in Illinois? Or [2] has this law been amended or revised? 3. Please give the true facts of such marriages. W. E.

1. It is not strictly true. The evasions law invalidates only when the marriage is "prohibited and declared void by the laws of this state." While the statute was correctly quoted in the article to which you refer, the writer's summary gave an erroneous impression by leaving out the words which we have just quoted. You have apparently relied on the summary rather than on the statute.

2. No.

3. Many of our Crown Point marriages are valid. Some of them are invalid. Each case should be considered on its facts. Most Indiana marriages evading Illinois age requirements or the new health certificate law are presumably valid since such marriages are not "prohibited and declared void" by the Illinois statute. The point has not been settled, however, by the Illinois courts. We advise parties not to take a chance.

On the other hand, marriages of first cousins are clearly subject to the evasions law, since they are "declared to be incestuous and void" by Section 1 of the Illinois marriage act.

REPAIRS NEEDED.

Chicago, July 22.—[Friend of the People.]—There is an unsightly place next door to my home. Two or three families live in the building, which is in run-down condition. I fear that bricks will roll down the roof into my bedroom window. The garage is ready to fall apart and is full of paper and rubbish. I try to keep my cottage in good condition, but because of the old place next door my tenants complain. Would you please see what can be done about it? J. E.

Our inspector reports this is a two story frame building, the chimney and front porch of which are in need of repairs; otherwise the building is structurally safe.

The owner has been notified to make the necessary repairs and if the work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice we will proceed according to law.

NO CAUSE FOR ACTION.

Chicago, July 22.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a poolroom in our neighborhood, which is strictly a residential section. I am sure that it is there in violation of the zoning law, but that somehow a license was obtained. I can safely say that it is detrimental to the morale of the children in the immediate neighborhood, who unintentionally mingle with the patrons. L. D.

Our inspector reports this is a one story brick store building erected prior to the passage of the zoning ordinance and complies with section 14, paragraph E, of the zoning ordinance. There is no cause for action by this department.

POST-MORTEM.

Chicago, July 24.—President Roosevelt might have had a degree of success with his court packing project had he frankly told the people just what legislation he had in mind to require a packed court and had he proved the existence of the emergency he declared justified his startling "reform."

In doing neither he made it clear to every one who has watched his record with an open mind that trickery and evasion are being employed by the New Deal in a manner far too serious to be explained on the mere technicalities of politics. Furthermore, he set millions of Americans to wondering about his whole theory of emergencies. How many of them are real, how many mere inventions of the New Deal?

Patrick Henry once had something to say about a government that refused its taxed subjects representation. His words, altered to fit the present situation, might read, "Taxation With Misrepresentation Is Fraud!" PAUL DARROW PADDOCK.

RED LETTER DAY.

CLOSE DECISIONS COMPARED.

Chicago, July 23.—Poor old Barkley of Kentucky! For leader of his party in the senate he has to be content with one majority out of a total vote of seventy-five. The majority of one in a 5 to 4 decision of the Supreme court is equivalent to a majority of eight and a third of that senate vote. Thus his majority of one is less than one-eighth as large as that in a 5 to 4 decision of the court.

T. R. B.

THE END OF THE SEARCH.

Chicago, July 23.—THE TRIBUNE'S editorial, "The End of the Search" [July 21], is a most contemptible effort to disparage our President and our navy personnel. In it the writer states that "the government has now spent a sum running into many hundreds of thousands of dollars" in the search for the Earhart plane. Yet on page 4 of the same issue in a small, inconspicuous article is the President's statement that "the search did not cost the navy 1 cent," as it was considered a part of their regular practice maneuvers, a necessary part of their training. Of course, your editorial writer must have been well aware of this fact from the beginning, so this editorial as well as the daily front page abuse of the administration for "wasting the taxpayers' money" were all phonies from the start. Why not give your readers credit for a little intelligence? F. MARTIN.

OFF THE CHEST.

Chicago, July 15.—Speaking as an American citizen, with parents of American birth, I wish to state that I consider your editorial on the soviet flyers one of the most ignorant and prejudiced articles that can possibly be written.

ELLWOOD HANNEMANN.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Chicago, July 20.—Can you explain the inexcusable delay in paying the old age pensioners? They are always behind, although Springfield has a year's money in advance from Washington.

ANXIOUS.

MOORING SITES SUGGESTED.

Chicago, July 21.—THE TRIBUNE asks, editorially, "Why No Yachts?" Many thousands of Chicago sailing enthusiasts will burn to answer, but probably most of them will refrain. Don't think they're indifferent; they're merely discouraged, as you would speedily become were you to essay the ownership and operation of a pleasure craft—either sail or power—in the Chicago area.

"Our facilities are much superior," you remark. Come, come, my dear sir! Can you stand a little mathematics? A 25 foot vessel needs at least a 60 foot circle of water for her home mooring. A 50 footer must have 120 feet of sea room, or more, to swing even in the most sheltered anchorage. Take a Chicago waterfront chart and see how many such circles [including quite a few much larger ones] you can cram into the available mooring waters! Bear in mind as you labor that the park authorities have able men on the job, such as Capt. Michaels, who can teach a sardine packer many things. They'll get in more circles than you can, and they'll augment these moorings by providing several hundred "slips" for power boat parking. And when they're all through there's still not enough mooring room for the boats already afloat in Chicago waters. A man or boy who acquires a new boat from now on must truly be an optimist!

There are several remedies, all of which have been suggested by competent persons. Burnham park lagoon is unused and virtually useless for any purpose other than yacht anchorage. Yet formal requests for mooring permission there go ungranted and unanswered. Semi-sheltered waters about Navy pier could undoubtedly be developed into magnificent anchorages. Park lagoons to the north, instead of being filled in, could be readily kept available for power boats low enough to clear boulevard bridges. Belmont, Montrose, Grant park, Jackson park—certainly a bit of expansion here and there could be engineered and accomplished without too much expense. I'll leave that to the experts.

All I have been trying to answer is your query: "Why No Yachts?" And in behalf of the group of suffering sailors I represent, thank you very much for the opportunity. HUGH A. READING,
The Small Ship Club, Chicago.

STRATEGY.

Chicago, July 20.—Has it occurred to any of us that our ambitious President, thwarted in his attempt to make a rubber stamp out of the Supreme court, will quite possibly create a new "emergency" in order to secure still greater dictatorial powers? Such an "emergency" can easily be created by embroiling our nation in a foreign war. The latest activity on the part of the state department suggests such a possibility. As we know from past history this is the way all dictators come to the front—a deliberate attempt to create an "emergency" so as to justify their greed and ambition for greater power. With unscrupulous and ambitious politicians anything is justifiable. J. V. SWARTZ.

SIMPLY DISGUSTING.

Chicago, July 23.—Your editorial in today's TRIBUNE on German art is simply disgusting and repugnant. Why not leave the Germans alone? We have plenty to do to clean up our own front yard. AMERICAN CITIZEN.

Flowers Tell Betrothal of Miss Brinkman

BY JUDITH CASS.

ON Saturday night at their home in Hinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Brinkman gave a dinner for Miss Marianne Hoover and Carl B. Davis Jr., who are to be married on Aug. 12. However, just before the dessert course, when finger bowls were passed, the youthful guests learned that the dinner was given for another reason, too, for the engagement of the Marianne Hoover.

Brinkmans' daughter, Frances Marion, to James Robert Wilson was revealed in the flowers that floated in the finger bowls.

Miss Hoover and Miss Brinkman have been friends for many years, as have Mr. Wilson and young Mr. Davis. Miss Brinkman and Miss Hoover attended Mount Vernon seminary. The former also studied at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wilson of Woodstock, attended Wesleyan university, the University of Chicago, and the Harvard School of Business Administration.

Wedding Is Planned for Evanston Church.

Miss Hoover is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray P. Hoover of Evanston. Her sister, Miss Jane Hoover, is to be maid of honor at her wedding, which will take place at the First Presbyterian church in Evanston at 8:30 o'clock in the evening of Aug. 12 with a reception following at the Hoover home. Mrs. Roderick McKinnon of Milwaukee [Dorothy Davis] will be the matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be 12 year old Lorayne Hoover, Miss Frances Hanchett, Miss Nancy Lewis, Miss Gretchen Onderdonk, Miss Elizabeth Sheldon, Miss Margaret Sanborn of New York, and Miss Lucille Streat, also of New York.

John Booth Davis will be his brother's best man. Ushers will be Mr. McKinnon, Arthur and Raymond Galt, James Phillips, Palmer Coulter, James Wilson, Herbert Woodworth, Herbert Lundahl, Jack Norcott, and Charles Reynolds of Washington, D. C. Mr. Davis and his bride will spend a month in the east and then will be at home on the south side, for he has another year of study at the University of Chicago medical school. His father is Dr. Carl B. Davis.

Mrs. William Hart gave a luncheon and shower at her home in Evanston Saturday for Miss Hoover. Among the other parties planned for her is a cocktail party Miss Virginia Lee Graham will give on Sunday, Aug. 8. The bridal dinner will be the night before the wedding but Mr. and Mrs. Hoover have not decided whether to give it at home or at the Glen View club.

Lake Superior Shores Beckon Chicagoans.

The very best month of the year to be away from home, according to some Chicagoans, is the month of August. This is especially true of those fortunate ones who visit the Huron Mountain club on the shores of Lake Superior, where the social life and fishing season is at a peak during the last weeks of summer.

The Laird Bells, the Richard Bentleys, and the Paul Moyers are among those who spend a few weeks each summer at this delightful club. The Bells have made plans to go north the first week in August, but their household will be unusually small this season, for two of their daughters will be absent. Miss Helen Bell is traveling abroad with Miss Virginia Hobart, and is not expected at home until September. Miss Frances Bell is working at the Chicago Art institute, and is so engrossed in her job that she is not going to take any time off to go to the club, unless it be over Labor day.

The Richard Bentleys will return today from the club, with plans to go back north again at the end of a week or ten days.

The Paul Moyers also are at the northern resort. Mr. Moyer's daughter, Miss Laura Moyer, who makes her home with her uncle and aunt, Col. and Mrs. Robert G. Peck, is at Glen Lake, Mich., the Pecks' summer home.

Miss Virginia Anne Hodges went north Friday night to spend the week-end, or possibly longer, at Glen Lake. However, Miss Babby Culbertson is expected in Chicago today or tomorrow, and Miss Hodges is anxious to be here when Miss Culbertson arrives, for the two girls are close friends. Miss Hodges is anxious to hear all about Miss Culbertson's presentation to King George and Queen Elizabeth, and the coronation, for which Miss Culbertson and her mother, Mrs. Wallace F. Kirk, were in England. Mrs. Kirk expects to be in Lake Forest for the remainder of the summer, probably at the Deerpath inn.

Ravinia Echoes with Base Hits and Bass Viols

BY CECIL M. SMITH.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, directed by Hans Lange, gave two concerts at Ravinia park over the week-end, on Saturday evening and on Sunday afternoon. These concerts, however, were minor incidents of no more than passing interest to the members of the orchestra and the members of the Ravinia board.

The real event of the week-end—indeed, of the entire season—was a baseball game on the park grounds Saturday afternoon between two crack teams, one drawn from the orchestra and the other from among the officers of the Ravinia festival.

It was a grudge game. Each side resented the fact that the other side had won one of the two games played last summer, leaving the 1936 series a draw. Last Saturday the orchestra men showed their mettle by emerging victorious from the brilliant but unbloody fray. They claimed a final score of 6 to 3. After the game, both sides sat down in peace and amity before groaning boards heaped with picnic viands.

The Saturday evening concert included the first local performance of Sir Henry Wood's modernization of Purcell's "A Trumpet Voluntary," Rachmaninoff's Second symphony, the Concerto Grosso for three flutes, harp, and orchestra by David Van Vactor of the orchestra's flute section, Debussy's "Clouds," and "Festivals," and the waltzes from Johann Strauss' "Die Fledermaus."

Mr. Van Vactor's Concerto Grosso had been played by the orchestra once before, in April, 1935. The first two of its three movements are modeled closely—too closely, if anything—after the style of Bach. The closing movement is in a gay, waggish manner, reminiscent of Prokofieff's "Classical" symphony. All three movements are engaging music, full of exquisite and colorful uses of the solo instruments. I wish, however, that Mr. Van Vactor might remodel his first two movements to give them more of the wayward personal quality of the finale.

The brief "Trumpet Voluntary" is a choice addition to the répertoire. It will be good to hear it some time when it has been rehersed.

Mr. Lange's reading of the beautiful Rachmaninoff symphony has become more flexible since he played it last April. Without the confinement of quite so metronomic a beat as before, he allowed the long-sustained eloquence of the slow movement to weave a more repturous spell. At the end of the symphony, however, he completely missed the boat. Here the musical climax of the entire symphony occurs when the majestic, soaring closing theme returns for a final sweeping restatement. By hurrying the tempo greatly he left the symphony without psychological or musical resolution.

At yesterday afternoon's concert a crowd of moderate size was attracted by a program consisting of Dvorak's "New World" symphony, Rossetter Cole's "Pioneer" overture, Gustav Holst's "St. Paul's Suite" for string orchestra [first Chicago performance], the Saint-Saëns "Tarantelle" for flute, clarinet, and orchestra, played by Ernest Liegl and Robert Lindemann of the orchestra, and Liszt's bombastic "Les Préludes." In the light of arguments advanced that the Ravinia programs have been too severe, it was interesting to note that the popular "New World" symphony did not fill the pavilion with listeners.

The Holst suite, written for the orchestra of St. Paul's School for Girls in London, where the composer taught, draws its material from British folk music. Without quoting any actual folk songs or dances [except in the last movement] the suite has a vigorous, outdoor freshness which gives it the real breath of life.

Mr. Cole's overture was an occasional piece, written for the Illinois centennial in 1918. Without wishing to hold any composer responsible for deeds nineteen years old, I could not help wondering whether even so festive a celebration as the Illinois centennial really required such extensive brass fanfares.

Mr. Liegl and Mr. Lindemann were applauded for their share in the perfectly deadly Saint-Saëns "Tarantelle." Mr. Lange was given a rousing sendoff which left no doubt of the esteem in which his Ravinia audience holds him.

The Stage

Four changes have been made in the cast of "You Can't Take It with You," the comedy which is now in the twenty-fifth week of its run at the Harris theater. They are as follows: Eva Condon as Mrs. Sycamore, replacing Daisy Atherton; Cynthia Blake as the grand duchess, replacing Ulla Nazanova; Muni Seroff as the dancing teacher, replacing Ed Conrad, and Frank Tweddell as the iceman, replacing Walter Vonnegutt.

Miss Alice Hanson, daughter of the Carl Victor Hansons of Winnetka, takes the sun on the lawn of the Indian Hill club, where she often swims, plays tennis, and dines and dances during the summer months. Miss Hanson has another year at the New Trier High school before she will be ready for college.

A SUBURBAN incident has to do with a man with a half crate of raspberries on the handle bars of his bicycle who stopped at the village drinking fountain and, losing balance as he leaned over for a drink, spilled the berries in the street. A few minutes later a handsome, dignified, elderly woman drove up in an old-fashioned electric car. She parked the car and began picking up berries from the street. These she washed at the fountain, and ate with evident relish. Then she washed her hands, dried them with a wisp of sheer linen she pulled from her bag, settled her hat, drew on her black gloves, and went on her way with the dignity befitting the wife of one of the town's leading professional men.

A WOMAN who patronizes the French couturier Mainbocher [originally of Oak Park] has put away a fragment of cloth she thinks may, with the years, become a historic souvenir. It is a snip of the material used in making the wedding dress of Wally Simpson, now the duchess of Windsor. A little sewing girl at Mainbocher's salvaged it from the leftover pieces, pinned it to a card and mailed it to her in America, by way of souvenir.

NOW that the excitement about the pickle girl has died down, we give you the thin woman who lunches regularly on desserts at a West Jackson boulevard cafeteria. She ate four for luncheon Wednesday—raspberry shortcake with whipped cream, butterscotch pudding, a piece of fresh blueberry pie and a large piece of cake thickly frosted. Her gaunt figure moves swiftly daily past the meats, vegetables and salads, and she is oblivious to the smiles from the luncheon habitués as she begins to heap her tray with dessert. Occasionally she has a cup of coffee, into which, besides cream, she drops a pat of butter.

Chicago's Jubilee Fashion Pageant Opens Tomorrow

Plans for the jubilee fashion pageant, in which the new fall designs of the Style Creators of Chicago will be presented as a highlight of Chicago's fall market week, were completed yesterday.

The show, to be presented in the lagoon theater of Burnham park tomorrow night and Aug. 3, will be a dramatization of new fall fashions. Three thousand seats will be reserved for the retail apparel buyers, who have descended upon Chicago from all corners of the nation for the fall market season which opens today. Mayor Kelly will open the event.

On the program, besides the important modeling of the new fashions, will be a floor show made up of novelty numbers such as tap and adagio dancing, vocal ensembles, and the music of a thirty piece orchestra.

Style Expert Happy to See Black Clothes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Two weeks out of the business of watching the fashion parade is a grand lull—a lull that makes you appreciate big shadowy black hats with fluttering black veils, straight and severely slim black dresses, black footgear, whether sandals or classic pumps, and the dozens of stunning white or pastel pins, chokers and bracelets that are used for contrast.

Everything looks grand, the windows in the various shops being magnets after gazing on the world's collection of head bands and open haired hats in white, such as have haunted our otherwise peaceful slumber, we wonder how in heck they looked so good to us a few months back.

Even the task of keeping white footgear spotless has palled, to say nothing of the daily scrutiny of the all white clothes and the deadly task of tubbing the white gloves and cleaning the white bags.

By this time you'll gather we're waxing enthusiastic about getting into slim, swanky black. The current showings are extra fascinating, with dull crepe taking all the votes. You'll like the straight streamlines, the fitted waistlines and how some of us are going to rush toward the diet lists and others for new, suavely fitting foundations to make these smooth black clothes stay smooth, and the clever new short sleeves.

Shirred bodices are achieved in any number of ways . . . with a double cord that ties into position holding the shirrings, with a skin tight zipper down the front or with side zippers and a band down the front. Its the sleeves that please the shoppers . . . no more "too much of the pleats and shirrings and folds."

Shoulderlines are down to reasonable proportions, and they reveal the arm as they cling. Dull crepe, dull and bright combines of dull background with designs in shimmering satin, thin thin wools, and occasional satins are the materials.

Some of the first long sleeved creations are "in" and they are as trim, slim and smart as anything you have seen for days.

Select Ratoff as a Character in Cantor Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 25.—[Special.]—For Eddie Cantor's picture "All Baba Goes to Town" at Twentieth Century-Fox the studio writers, prompted by Director Dave Butler and Produced Darryl Zanuck, have inserted a part

Grace Moore.

Gregory Ratoff.

modeled after that colorful personage, Gregory Ratoff.

Ratoff, a Russian, is a writer, director, and actor at the studio, besides being Cantor's friend. Ratoff can make the English language sound more like Russian when he speaks it than like English.

The character rôle which has been written into the Cantor story is named Abou-Ben-Ratoff, and the actor who will play it is supposed to look like and act like Ratoff. Over the door of his character's shop will be lettered in Arabic: "Camel's hair coats, from camel to you."

Grace Moore told her employers at Columbia studio that she wouldn't sing St. Louis Blues" in her next picture, and after some time trying to induce her to change her mind the employers will pick another song.

Mrs. Ruth Withers, Jane's mother, has felt misgivings for some weeks about the neighbors across the street in Brentwood, and the possibility that they might mention to the police about Jane's goats, chickens, turtles, rabbits, baby alligator, cats, lovebirds and ducks.

Accordingly it was with a bit of relief that Mother Withers, Papa Walter Withers, and Jane left several weeks ago for an auto trip. Orders were left to have the house staf cut down on the pets while Jane was away. Now the family is back and Mrs. Withers looks a trifle wan.

A ranch boy near the mission San Juan Baptiste gave Jane a kitten. The Boy Scouts in a camp at Big Suhr, Cal., presented Jane with a lizard. A man at an auto camp in San Joaquin valley gave her two Chinese chickens. Friends in San Francisco gave her six baby turtles.

Good Morning!

Observation of "Super-Sleuth" will reveal it as farce, unusually pure, decidedly simple, and fairly amusing.

The giant Oakie plays the title rôle with relish and tongue in cheek. As Bill Martin he is a famous screen detective who, on the silver sheet, always gets his man. The plot of the picture is concerned with some adventures in real life where he endeavors, by scenario methods that have never failed him, to bring a "Poison Pen" man to justice.

Everybody concerned with the man hunt is a dim wit, with the exception of Mary Strand, head of the studio's publicity department. Poor Mary Strand, who, with a world of men to choose from, was fated to fall for "Super-Sleuth Bill! . . .

Action is fast and completely nutty. But it is the sort of nonsense that now and then is relished by the best of men.

You will like the increasingly rotund Mr. Oakie, find yourselves becoming right fond of Miss Sothern, be much amused by Eduardo Ciannelli as the slick and inaccurate shooting "Poison Pen" and enjoy Edgar Kennedy and his struggles with a toupee.

I take it that "Super-Sleuth" is a sort of rib on some of our more serious minded detective dramas. If so—'s all right by me.

See you tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS.

Michael Eden, heir to millions, postpones his marriage to Katharine McCann because his foster-father, John Millis, tells him his foster-mother is ill and needs him. Katharine's roommate, Joan, is engaged to Michael's friend, Terry Newton. Michael signs a will making Millis his heir, expecting to change it after his marriage to Katharine. Mrs. Millis attempts suicide when she discovers her husband flirting with her nurse. Michael rescues her and takes her away. Millis tricks Katharine into a ride with him and forces his kisses on her. Amos Newton, uncle of Terry, believes that Millis killed Terry's father, who was Michael's co-guardian. Michael returns to the home of Amos Newton and Katharine and he plan to be married next day, though Michael is ill. That night Michael, in delirium, returns to the Millis home, desperately ill with typhoid fever. Katharine obtains Dr. Kittredge to attend him. Newton tells Katharine that the exhumed body of Michael's real mother showed she died of poisoning. Ferenzi, a self-confessed poisoner, charges that Millis bought typhoid germs from him.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

A BLUNDER CORRECTED.

"You may thank God, Miss Katharine, that you are not a doctor's sweetheart," Dr. Kittredge growled. "You are going due south. I am heading straight north. I have called a cab for myself, and you will let my man take you home. O yes, you will, young lady. By Jove, I'm going to be minded by somebody."

He put her into his waiting car and left her with a gay nod.

"May I get in touch with you soon, Miss McCann? I want very much to talk with you. I simply must get things straight. I will call you up tomorrow."

"Tomorrow!" Katharine murmured. "I never bank any more on tomorrow."

The tone of her voice and her desperately unhappy, fear-haunted eyes Kittredge was to remember for many days.

Kittredge crawled into bed at half past five in the morning. At 7 o'clock an apologetic servant wakened him to tell him that there had been an insistent call for him from the Eden case.

Kittredge reached for the phone.

"Dr. Kittredge speaking. Is that you Mrs. Scott. What's wrong. . . . Eden is not so well? . . . No, I don't think so. . . . No, I'll be right over."

Mrs. Scott met him in the upper hall.

"Do I talk to you first?" he asked.

"If you'll just give me five minutes. The patient can't hear us from where we are."

"What do you have to say?"

The woman spoke clearly and very rapidly.

"Oleson went to sleep again last night. It wasn't his fault. I hadn't slept much, although Mr. Michael seemed about the same, and sleeping soundly. The house just wouldn't settle down. At half past three I got up to reassure myself as to Michael—why, I don't know. Michael was not there. I guessed that he had gone flighty again and roused Oleson and we went on a search. Now I must show you where we found him."

The nurse walked so fast that Kittredge had difficulty in keeping pace with her. It seemed to him that they went miles. His heart sank at the thought of his sick boy. She led him into a part of the house with which he was not familiar, to the top floor and into a huge unused bedroom.

"We got him pretty quickly, considering," she said. "We could hear him for quite a while, but couldn't tell where. He was standing there at that window with the window wide open, crying hysterically. He was jerking frantically at that old loose fire escape, and moaning, over and over: 'I can't do it. I can't do it. I've been pretty sick. I'm not a coward, but I know I can't.' When we came in he turned and bowed. 'It's all over, is it? You needn't tell me,' he said. 'I know.'

"All the way back to the room he was apologizing softly. 'It has been a very trying experience for you both,' he would say. 'I am sorry and ashamed. I should have been able to control it, but I wasn't. I tried. I assure you I tried. Would money do you any good? Some people seem to find use for it. I have that. I have money. It's all I have, but you are welcome to that. I have fifteen or twenty million, they tell me. I wish you'd take it. I do indeed.'

"When we got him to bed, his fever was way up, and he had one chill after another; but he has grown quiet now, and it actually does not seem to have done him much harm. The thing that is going to hurt him is his mental state. He has something preying on his mind."

"Thanks. Let's see him, please."

To Mrs. Scott's astonishment, when Kittredge came into the room Michael's eyes flashed open, and he nodded and sat up suddenly.

"I'm glad you have come," he said briefly. "I wish you to call a cab and take me away. I am sorry to find fault, doctor, but you should never have let me stay in this poisonous atmosphere."

Kittredge flushed uncomfortably. He feared the patient was right. Instantly the boy's steely blue eyes softened.

"Don't blame yourself," he said. "It's just one of those things that happen. How could you understand?" He pushed back his hair with a long thin hand, and looked out at them in a bewildered fashion. "But somebody should have understood. Never mind. Don't try to understand, doctor. Just get me out of here. At once."

"Am I to take you to a hospital, Michael?" Kittredge asked, very gently and meekly.

"Isn't there any place for me but a hospital? Don't you think Mr. Newton would let me go there? Ask him, anyway."

"I don't need to ask him," Kittredge answered. "You'll be welcome at his house."

Michael gave a smothered sigh of relief and closed his eyes. The doctor leaned over him to watch him closely, counting his pulse. After a few minutes Michael opened his eyes and grinned weakly. "Not passing out this time," he said reassuringly. "Do I leave at once?"

The nurses looked at the doctor and scarcely breathed, as they waited for his answer. It came with much decision.

"I shall move you just as soon as I can get the rooms ready and get an ambulance for you and that will be before noon today."

Michael's face brightened. "That's good," he said briefly.

Kittredge called the Newton home and found Amos was not there. He called Katharine, and found that she had gone out to a suburb on a special assignment. He called Terry at his club, where he learned that Terry had not been around for a week. They suggested that he try Mr. Amos Newton, the young man's uncle. Kittredge again called the Newton house.

"I've got to get hold of Mr. Newton," he said gruffly to the Jap who answered the telephone. "I'm bringing a sick boy to the house in exactly two hours."

"Mr. Michael, sir?"

"Yes, Michael Eden."

"O, that's all right, Dr. Kittredge," the Jap said cheerfully. "You send me good woman from the hospital who tell me what to do. I do it. We be all ready."

Kittredge groaned with relief. Nor did he ever forget the beautiful rooms placed at his disposal, faultless in every detail. He breathed the atmosphere of gentle dignity and peace, and he cursed the blunder which had kept young Michael Eden in his dreary poisonous home for four long weeks, when Newton had been waiting here to welcome him.

Shortly before noon a little procession of hospital orderlies and nurses, carrying a stretcher on which lay a shrouded figure, passed down the great stairway of the old Eden house.

Michael stood the transfer well. It was not easy to tell when he was rational. They suspected that he was flighty most of the time. Only his exceeding reserve and his desperate eyes made them hesitate.

He accepted the absence of Amos Newton patiently.

"He may be dead," he said simply. "It was a long time ago that I knew him. I used to know his nephew." Then he hesitated. "And—Katharine. Find out for me, doctor—we were to be married. Find out if she is waiting for me. It has been such a long time."

Pimples Must Be Treated in Safe Manner

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

When pimples appear it is not unusual for girls or boys to start squeezing them, and sometimes doing it carelessly. They are unmindful of the fact that careless treatment in the removal of pimples will cause the face to become scarred. They start out removing one or two pimples, and no ill effects are discernible, so they keep right on, but if they disregard all warnings and persist they eventually will have a scarred face. This is particularly true when the pimples are large. The skin is tender and must be handled delicately.

When a pimple is squeezed it is possible that the matter may flow into an adjoining gland and infect it. For this reason one should have on hand some cotton to dip into a disinfectant, and apply it at once to the squeezed pimple to prevent the possible spread of the infection.

When the pimple has come to a head puncture it with a sterilized needle and press out the contents. Be gentle when you squeeze the matter out, covering the fingertips with cotton or use tissue. Then wipe with a disinfectant.

Pimples spring from blackheads, so in their elimination get at the blackheads. When you find certain areas of the face are showing blackhead formations get after them before they have had an opportunity to develop into pimples. It's such a simple matter when taken in time. Thorough scrubbing with a complexion brush, using warm water and a pure soap, will do the trick. As you scrub you stimulate circulation. A sluggish circulation slows up the elimination from the sebaceous glands, with the result that the pores become clogged. The idea then is to keep the blood flowing freely through the veins so that impurities may be eliminated.

After cleansing thoroughly rinse well with cold water to close the pores. It's a simple way to avoid disfiguring blemishes, for blackheads, while not as disfiguring as pimples, nevertheless are an unlovely sight. They seem to say the owner of the face wearing them is not as consistent in her daily face cleansing as she might be, and that's not a nice thing to have said about any one.

"Floral Block" Quilt Selection of Teen Age Girl

All quilters have favorite patterns which are suited to their personalities. "Floral Block" is most expressive of the 'teen aged miss who is just beginning to appreciate and enjoy her own room. The block is not difficult to make and it may be appliqued by the young beginning quiltmaker for her own bed. The blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement with plain white blocks, and only 30 applique squares are required. The dimensions of the completed coverlet are 90 by 106 inches.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

More cleansing pads! A marvelous invention, these, and there really can't be too many of them in this grimy world. They are the grandest little gadgets for the working girl and for the traveler. We took a flock of them along when we vacationed recently and many were the blessings we deposited on some unknown inventor's head!

The cleansing pad makes possible a complete, thorough face cleansing without messiness or a lot of paraphernalia. One or two of the flannel strips and there you are.

You have probably seen them. If you haven't, be on watch for them—they're simply a stack of pre-saturated flannel pads packed in what looks like an ordinary cold cream jar. Use them one at a time. One pad does a thorough job of removing makeup from the face. Use two and you can look as freshly scrubbed about both face and neck as though you'd had a shower.

These pads seem to combine the virtues of cleansing cream and tonic. The newest we've found are flannel bits saturated in a lotion or cream mixture that has a faint almond scent. The skin is cleansed and left refreshed and moist—but not greasy. It feels exactly as it does after a cream cleansing and a painstaking application of tonic. Makeup goes on perfectly.

The original package, cream jar size, is accompanied by a compact-shaped container to tote about in your purse. This can be filled from time to time from the large jar. There should be one of these in every pocketbook—to say nothing of desk drawers and the pockets of the car. You can freshen up in a jiffy. The purse size container holds twelve, the large one a hundred of the little pads.

These are delightfully cheap—and they rate, with us at least, as absolutely tops in good grooming aids.

"Some little bug is going to get you some day." That was the name of a foolish song I once heard years ago—and there's a good deal of truth in it. But there's one little bug—or rather a little germ—which shouldn't be allowed to get any of us. His name is bacillus botulinus, and he's capable of producing the food poisoning known as botulism.

This bacterium exists in soil all over the world, and is not poisonous in its spore form. But it may be exceedingly dangerous when it appears in foods, especially vegetables, which haven't been properly canned. Fruits and tomatoes, and all sorts of pickles, are safe from this germ, because it is readily destroyed by acids. Most of the common vegetables, string beans, corn, and peas, for instance, are nonacid, and may be canned safely only in the pressure cooker which produces a temperature high enough to kill the organism. The disease botulism is a rare one, but almost always is fatal.

Commercially canned vegetables are safe, and it is advisable to use only these unless it is possible to use the pressure cooker in home canning. The United States department of agriculture advises against home canning of vegetables, meat, or fish by any other method, and I should like to echo their warning.

This vegetable canning time table indicates the method used to prepare many of our common vegetables for canning, the pressure and time required for processing.

VEGETABLE CANNING TIME TABLE.

ASPARAGUS—40 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Wash, tie asparagus in bundles, and pre-cook for 5 minutes, keeping tips out of the water. Pack into jars, add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart, and process.

BEANS, GREEN OR WAX—40 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Wash, string, boil for 5 minutes and pack into jars, adding 1 teaspoon salt to each quart. Process.

BEANS, LIMA—60 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Can only young, tender limas. Bring to a boil with water to cover, pack, and add 1 teaspoon salt per quart. Process.

BEETS—40 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Wash and leave roots and about an inch of stem on the beets. Boil for 15 minutes and skin. Pack into hot jars and cover with boiling water. Add 1 teaspoon salt to quart. Process.

CARROTS — 40 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Wash, boil 10 minutes, and skin. Pack whole or sliced into hot jars, and cover with boiling water. Add 1 teaspoon salt per quart. Process.

CORN—75 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

Boil on cob 5 minutes, cut off, and pack loosely in jars. Or cut off corn and heat in boiling water to cover before packing. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon sugar to a quart.

GREENS, INCLUDING SPINACH—75 minutes at 10 pounds.

Steam or heat in uncovered vessel until the greens are wilted, using just enough water to prevent burning. Pack loosely into hot jars and add boiling water to cover. Add 1 teaspoon salt per quart before processing.

KOHLRABI, TURNIPS—45 minutes at 10 pounds.

Wash, boil 15 minutes, slice, and pack the vegetables, adding 1 teaspoon salt per quart. Process.

OKRA—40 minutes at 10 pounds.

Can only young, tender pods. Cover with water and bring to a boil. Pack hot in jars, adding 1 teaspoon salt per quart. Process.

PEAS—60 minutes at 10 pounds.

Use only tender, young peas. Bring to a boil with water to cover, pack, add 1 teaspoon each of salt and sugar per quart, and process. Sugar may be omitted.] Many authorities believe that the flavor is impaired by sugar. Others think it is enhanced.

Whether the jars are sealed or semi-sealed before processing depends upon the type of cap used.

Mrs. Whitney Is Hostess at Opera Luncheon Today

Mrs. Jason Whitney will be hostc at an opera luncheon in her Evanston home today. HAROLD TEEN—THE COAST IS CLEAR—THEN FOGGY

Practical Culotte Ensemble

WOMAN'S AND MISS' CULOTTES.

Gay cottons and linens are the fabrics to select for this practical culotte ensemble. If you prefer plain shades, you may use the fashionable print for a girdle and for the brief bolero which accompanies the play outfit. This jacket is cut on simple lines. It is collarless and extends only to the waistline. It has sleeves which help to transform the halter-back sports garment into a street ensemble.

Now to the culotte garment itself. The top is styled along shirtwaist lines, with a regulation boyish collar. But there is absolutely no back. Buttons trim the front of the "bodice" and others may be used on the belt, if you prefer one to a sash.

Two patch pockets grace the culottes, which have plaits in back and front to give the illusion of a skirt. No one can tell that you are wearing "trousers," although the garment has all the advantages of trousers for active sports wear.

Style No. 2584 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 1¼ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

The much intertwined crownless turban is a grand accessory for this suit, since it may be made in print to match the jacket and sash. The pattern for this hat costs 15 cents extra. The number is 2541.

Miss Louise Atherton. Miss Massey remained there longer than did her mother and father and her brother, Loren J. Massey, who also attended the ceremony.

Miss Roxana Shroyer has come from Portland, Ore., to spend a month at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Shroyer, in Lake Zurich, while the Shroyers are in the east. Mr. and Mrs. Shroyer and Howard Shroyer left last week for Hyannisport to stay with their aunt, Mrs. Daniel Loring, who has taken a house at the Cape Cod resort for the summer.

Mrs. Shroyer's sister, Miss Louise Wood, is in Italy this summer.

The Fortunato Jeraces, who returned recently from a trip around the world, have gone to their home in Pentwater, Mich., for the remainder of the summer. Mrs. Jerace's son, Eugene McVoy, is with them.

Mrs. John D. Kales has gone to Lake Sunapee to be with her daughter, Mrs. Bradley Dewey, until Sept. 1.

Gardners in Cape Cod for Rest of Summer.

Mrs. Henry A. Gardner, Henry Jr., Gifford, and Miss Evelyn Gardner are leaving today to spend the rest of the summer on Cape Cod. Mr. Gardner and Miss Marie Louise Gardner will remain in Winnetka. Mr. Gardner has had a trip this summer, for he and the boys and Miss Evelyn and Miss Carolyn Sutter returned last week from a ranch in Wyoming.

In the fall Miss Evelyn will return to Miss Master's school at Dobbs Ferry. Gifford is a student at Yale university, and Henry is attending Northwestern university law school.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tietgens are coming from their Florida home in August to stay with Mrs. Malcolm F. Ewen in Evanston. Mrs. Ewen is hostess at the moment to her grandniece, Patricia Deuell, the daughter of Princess Odescalchi of Budapest, the former Virginia Tietgens. The former Betty Tietgens, who was married to Gunnar Kjelberg of Stockholm some years ago, also has been staying with her aunt, Mrs. Ewen, but she is in Michigan now visiting friends.

When Mr. and Mrs. Tietgens arrive they will meet a new addition to the family, for their niece, the former Leonora Tietgens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst A. Tietgens, was married last Saturday to William G. Denman.

Valentines May Delay Sailing to Orient.

Because of threatening war conditions in China, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine and their son, Joseph W. Valentine, may not be able to sail for their proposed trip to the orient which they have planned for more than a year. The Valentines are on the west coast now.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Fentress [Roslyn Paine] are going east this fall to live in New York while young Mr. Fentress goes to school to learn the bond business. They have taken the penthouse apartment in which the Wilder Ripleys have been living.

Luncheon Outing.

The Native Daughters of Illinois will meet at the Lincoln park refectory for a Dutch treat luncheon tomorrow. The event is the organization's annual outing.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

RESPONSES TO THE FOUR NO TRUMP BID.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Except for refinement in details, the responses are simple and all are easily remembered because logical. One thing partner cannot do is pass. The responses are purely automatic, as follows:

1. Bid five no trump with any two aces, or one ace and the kings of all suits previously bid by either partner.
2. Bid five in any unbid suit in which the ace is held, if lower in rank than the eventual trump suit.
3. Bid five in an unbid suit in which the ace is held, even if this unbid suit is higher in rank than the eventual trump suit, if holding values not previously shown.
4. Bid six in the best trump suit with one ace of a bid suit, or with the kings of all bid suits, if holding values not previously shown.
5. Bid five in the lowest suit previously bid by either partner [a conventional sign-off bid which need not show support for that suit]. The sign-off should be made whenever the hand has no added values, although holding an ace higher in rank than the eventual trump suit, and is obligatory if holding neither an ace nor the kings of all bid suits.

TODAY'S HAND.

Since, in the interest of "preparedness," we must after the age-old bidding philosophy which was to show length first, it follows that there must be a commensurate alteration of responses. Let us, in the following hand, attack the bidding problem from the responder's point of view.

South, dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts [final bid]

It is North's last bid that I wish to bring under examination. His spade raise was given on the premise that his honor holding waranted something better than a mere no trump response. When South, after hearing about the spade support, shows his hearts, North should not woodenly assume that South's heart and spade suits are of equal length. He should allow for the fact that South started with the shorter, higher ranking suit in order to avoid a "reverse." Thus, instead of North's returning to spades on the assumption that his hand is not strong enough to support both suits, North must express that he is equally willing to play at hearts. Of course, over three hearts North might bid three no trump, but, if he does this and South rebids his hearts, North must not go back to the first named suit [spades] just because it was first named.

The advantage of hearts over spades as a final contract is easily seen. South will be "forced" almost from the first lead in diamonds, and were spades to be trump, soon would find himself with fewer trumps than his lefthand opponent. At hearts he can well afford the forcing, if he plays the hand properly.

Ruffing the second diamond, South should lead to the spade king and take the heart finesse. When this loses to the king and a third diamond is returned, South should swing over to a line of play that will turn dummy into the long trump hand. This means to ruff the third diamond, overtake the heart jack with dummy's queen, and ruff the fourth diamond with the heart ace. A club to the ace should be followed by the cashing of the heart seven, which draws East's last trump, and on which declarer should throw a club. A spade lead, with the queen showing up, then produces the fulfilling tricks.

Tomorrow's Hand.

Sally to Take 100 Children to a Circus Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[The activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

What kind of animals do you like best—lions, tigers, trained seals, elephants, ponies, giraffes? Well, even if you can't make up your minds, you'll have a chance to see them all if you win an invitation to my party on Aug. 5.

On that day 100 boys and girls will go to the lake front with me to see Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's combined circus. You can imagine how big the show will be when you know that it takes four whole trains to bring all the animals and performers to Chicago.

The boys and girls who win invitations will see daring trapeze artists, Col. Tim McCoy and his rough riders, and of course, your old favorites, the clowns, will be there by the dozens!

If you like to come with me to see this grand big show, just write a letter—write it yourself and in your own words, mind you—and tell me why you'd like an invitation. Be sure to give me your full name, address, and your age. If you can write a letter which will prove that you'd really have a good time if I selected you as one of my guests—maybe you'll be a winner!

Letter must be in this office by Thursday morning—so don't spend too much time just thinking about it—sit down and write your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Listen, Boys! Every Girl Is Fond of Praise

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"No matter what I wore, no matter how pretty it was, he never once paid me a compliment. He might have noticed it, but he never admitted it, and the one thing that I am credited with having is exquisite taste in dress. My mother has it and so I come by it naturally!"—Marge.

Now, boys, you might take a tip from Marge's little tale of woe and do not be so parsimonious with your compliments. It doesn't cost much effort, really, to tell a girl that she is looking particularly lovely. We women are that way. We like to be told that all our efforts to please are not in vain, so we welcome the compliment.

Girls, as you must suspect, go to a good deal of trouble to fix themselves up attractively when they have a date with you. You do, also, no doubt, and we'll wager you like to have a girl say something nice about how well you're looking, although you are not quite so hungry for clothes compliments as girls are. It's just one of those gracious little gestures that set the evening off to a good start.

Don't be afraid, young men, that we are trying to make sissies out of you by suggesting you take a keener interest in woman's clothes. It isn't necessary to be too adroit on the subject, but it is nice when you see your girl gotten up attractively to say so. It gives her a certain assurance and a warmer feeling toward you for your knowing what's nice when you see it.

WARN ALBERTA BANKS TO BACK SOCIAL CREDIT

Launch "Frontal Attack" to Reform Finances.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EDMONTON, Alta., July 25.—In what is describes as its "first frontal attack" on the present financial system, the social credit government of Alberta under Premier William Aberhart has issued a letter to the banks operating in the province calling for coöperation. It has followed this up with a "confidential" letter of explanation and direction to all social credit members of the legislature warning them that the demand for coöperation will be extended to all other institutions in Alberta.

Premier William Aberhart.

Copies of this "confidential" letter and the one sent to the bankers, signed by Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, were obtained today.

Sponsored by Planning Board.

One paragraph in the letter says the communication to the bankers is the "forerunner" of a considerable number of acts which the government contemplates will be necessary for making the will of the people of Alberta sovereign throughout all the institutions within the province of Alberta."

The "confidential letter" was issued under the sponsorship of the new social credit planning board of the government.

The letter urges the need of securing from government supporters and from the people "audible and visible manifestations of enthusiasm and support for the acts of the government from now on in each step it takes toward implementing social credit." Supporters are warned, however, that such demonstrations must be orderly so as to "avoid giving enemies of the social credit movement a handle with which to hinder it."

Calls for a Showdown.

Speaking on the situation at a large social credit gathering, Fred Anderson, one of the outstanding social credit members of the government, declared the letter to the bankers to be the "first frontal attack the government has ever made on the present financial system."

He also declared the government is demanding a "showdown with the bankers and financiers in the interest of the people of Alberta." Describing the necessity for a session of the provincial legislature now, Anderson stated that while it probably would last less than a week, it would have "repercussions that will echo around the world."

2 Killed and 2 Injured as Automobile Turns Over

Quincy, Ill., July 25.—[Special.]—Carl Ellsworth, 29, and John Troutfetter, 31, were killed early this morning when their car overturned after slipping off the road. Two women companions were injured but are expected to recover.

THREE CHICAGOANS BEATEN BY 6 MEN IN WISCONSIN COTTAGE

Kenosha, Wis., July 25.—[Special.]—Two men and a woman, all Chicagoans, spending the week-end at a cottage at Twin Lakes, 25 miles west of Kenosha, were beaten by six strangers early today, Undersherif Joseph Knipfer reported.

They were at Chester Stefan's cottage, and his guests were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ziolkowiski, both 32. Stefan answered the knock at the door and the men strode in. Two grabbed Stefan, two more jumped on Ziolkowiski while a fifth grabbed his wife's arms.

Stefan was taken from the cottage and Ziolkowiski was left unconscious on the floor. His wife immediately summoned help and while they were being given treatment at Richmond, Ill., five miles south of Twin Lakes, the strangers dropped Stefan unconscious near his cottage.

SECOND CAVE-IN IN ADDISON ST. CAUSED BY RAIN

A section of Addison street between Hermitage avenue and Paulina street caved in after yesterday's rain, necessitating the rerouting of trafic. The same section, police said, collapsed two weeks ago.

FOUR INCH RAIN AT PANA.

Pana, Ill., July 25.—[Special.]—The heaviest continuous July rainfall was recorded here late Saturday, through the night and today. Pana streets were like rivers. Basements were flooded and low sections of the city inundated by a four inch rain. Light and power service was impaired at intervals.

CUBA TO PARCEL SOIL TO FARMERS IN '3 YEAR PLAN'

HAVANA, July 25.—(AP)—Farm land would be parceled in 33 to 167 acre lots to Cuban homesteaders while the government kept a strict watch on rentals of private land under the island's new "three year plan." The plan is designed to reorganize island agriculture, industry, and finance.

The program for agriculture was made public today as government commissions prepared to draft laws to carry out the sweeping changes. The plan is fathered by Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's "strong man."

All land belonging to the state would be surveyed and squatters removed. Additional land would be purchased for the homestead distribution.

Farmers would obtain grants according to the size of their families and the productivity of the land—with the poor man getting the preference. The colonist would be financed by the government in his first planting and would be aided by agricultural experts. Title would pass to the farmer only after he proved his worth.

SERMON PRAISES RELIGIOUS FAITH HELD BY MARCONI

Despite the heights which Guglielmo Marconi reached as a scientist, he maintained a faith in religion that was unshaken to the time of his death in Rome on July 20, the Rev. Gregory M. Cloos of Joliet declared yesterday in a memorial sermon delivered in Italian and English at the Holy Name cathedral.

Father Cloos, who formerly was a member of the cathedral staf, officially greeted the inventor of wireless on the latter's visit to the World's fair in 1933.

Franco Fontana, Italian consul at Chicago, and Rene Weiller, French consul, were among the 2,000 who attended the service. A squad from Fort Sheridan fired a salute in front of the cathedral at the conclusion of the service.

One Dead, One Wounded as Result of Shooting Fray

Stepfather Admits Giving Liquor to 10 Year Old Boy

Leonard Winzer, 34 years old, 845 Wolfram street, a shoemaker, admitted to Sheffield avenue police yesterday that he gave his stepson, Kenneth Wimer, 10 years old, liquor which caused the boy to become intoxicated Saturday night. Winzer and a friend, Bernard Lewis, 24, of 1519 Adams street, also a shoemaker, were arrested in a tavern at 2819 North Halsted street. They will be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

SARAZEN'S 290 WINS $10,000 OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

COOPER, SMITH, LAFFOON TRAIL BY ONE STROKE

Runyan's 292 Good for Fifth.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
(Pictures on back page.)

Farmer Gene Sarazen, who has been tilling the tournament pastures with only lean harvests these last two years, yesterday reaped the bumper crop of the American medal play season. His 72 hole score of 290, seven over par for the Medinah country club, brought him victory and first prize of $3,000 in the $10,000 Chicago open tournament by one shot.

Ky Laffoon.

The single stroke separated the doughty little Italian from the three brother pros who had matched him almost shot for shot in as stirring a finish as Chicago galleries have witnessed in many seasons. They were Harry Cooper of Chicago, Ky Laffoon of Northmoor, and Horton Smith of Oak Park. Each finished with 291, a shot better than little Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., who smashed out a 69, the only card under 70 in the entire show, on his last round.

Moreland Leads Amateurs.

Heading the amateur contingent of 29 players was Gus Moreland of Peoria, the ex-Texan who held the Western amateur title once and also toiled on two Walker cup teams. Gus needed a 41, six over par on the final nine, but his 72 hole total of 300 was still good enough to beat out Freddie Haas, National intercollegiate champion from New Orleans, by one shot. Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., quarter-finalist in this year's British amateur, who had a smart 70 in the morning, slipped to a 79 in the afternoon and took third place with 305. George Dawson of Glen Oak and Bill Chambers of Sunset Valley tied for fourth place with 307s.

It was Cooper, as usual, who had the hard row to hoe. The slender Chicagoan, who is recognized as the game's master technician, played in the last threesome of the day. Standing on the 34th tee, he needed three pars to tie Sarazen, who had finished 45 minutes before him. He brought down one at the 34th, but went one over par at the 35th, where he was short, leaving him with a birdie on the home hole if he would gain a dead heat. His drive bent among the trees at the left, and his second bounded onto the green and over to the right apron. His 30 foot chip shot for the tie rolled a foot past the cup.

Ky Finishes Strong.

If Sarazen was aware of the ever present Cooper threat back of him there was the immediate matter of Laffoon, who was one of his playing partners on the last thirty-six holes. The young Northmoor pro, after staggering somewhat on the first nine of the afternoon round, rallied with old time Laffoon speed, finishing with two birdies.

Smith, a shot back of Sarazen at the sixty-third hole, went three over par coming home for his 291. The big Oak Parker had just come off the green when Runyan came sprinting up with his 69. Only those fans who saw Paul play the water seventeenth in the morning can appreciate how close golf's little poison came to tying Sarazen. The seventeenth calls for a 193 yard carry. Runyan barely negotiated it, the ball landing less than a foot from the water's edge. He crossed the bridge, ready to play for the hole, when suddenly a wave reached up and swept the ball back into the stream. He was forced to return to the tee and play another ball, settling for a five, two over par. Those two shots proved to be the difference between himself and Sarazen.

Gene Was About Due.

Barring his first place in the west coast open at Belleair, Fla., last winter, Sarazen's victory yesterday marked his first big time score since he hauled off with his epic double eagle in the 1935 Masters tournament. Winning really large money is nothing unusual to Gene, for seven years ago he captured first prize of $10,000 when the $25,000 Agua Caliente open was still in existence, and the $3,000 he collected last night will come in right handy, seeing as how the little squire recently lost six cows on his Brookfield Center, Conn., farm.

Sarazen maintained his reputation of being a man hard to catch once he's out in front. The first eighteen holes Friday saw him shoot a 72, two shots back of Bill Mehlhorn, the pacemaker. Saturday he fired a similar

New York, July 25.—The first place Cubs crashed in a heap today while trying to paint a winning picture as their final effort of the eastern tour. They tumbled, almost in humiliating fashion, because they couldn't hit, and the second place Giants who had been made to suffer in the two previous battles, repaid in kind. Despite their injury riddled ranks they breezed to victory, 5 to 0, leaving the Chicagoans with a two game hold on the top notch in the National league percentage column.

The defeat, while painful to a slight degree, was in no way discouraging to the leaders. It was only the sixth setback encountered since leaving home. Among these six defeats, two at Pittsburgh, two at Boston, and one at Philadelphia, the Cubs sprinkled 10 victories. The record can be made to look better by mentioning the fact that eight of the triumphs were registered in the last ten games. But the big item is that the Cubs had a two game edge when they closed their Chicago home stay on July 5. They're bringing the same margin back with them.

Ninth Defeat for Lee.

Bill Lee was charged with his ninth defeat as the result of what happened on the Polo grounds, but the big southerner was a long way from being a weakling. A pass and some hits caused him to surrender a run in the first inning. In the next session he was the victim of Harry Danning's homer. Thereafter he yielded only two hits until relieved by a pinch batter in the eighth. The change brought Clyde [Lefty] Shoun into action and Wally Berger, the former Bee, promptly cut loose with a near record breaking homer over the left field roof. Two of his mates were on bases at the moment.

Lee Shaky at Start.

The scarcity of the Cubs' hits can be credited to something of a mystifying nature thrown by Harry Gumbert, who previously had won only two decisions while dropping six. Twenty-three batters had so much difficulty gauging his tosses that they were retired by infielders, the four other outs being accomplished by fly chasers. His only shaky inning was the fourth when a pair of hits and a pass fixed up a full house, but it all

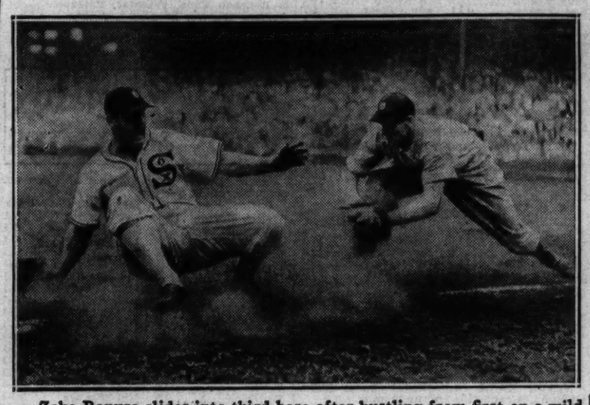
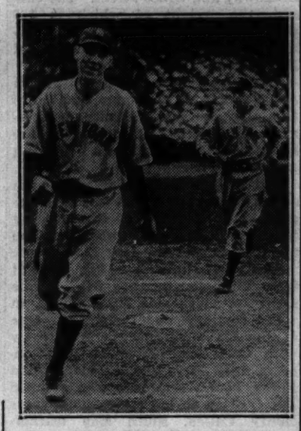
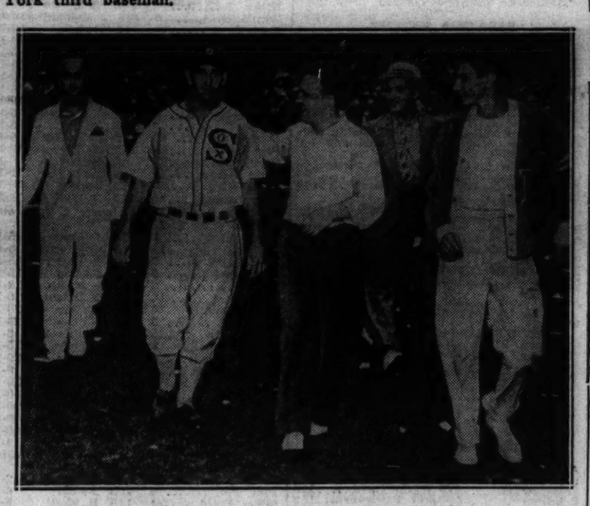
WHEN THE SOX WERE GIVING AND TAKING



Zeke Bonura slides into third base after hustling from first on a wild pitch in the third inning of the first game at Comiskey park, where the White Sox split with the Yankees before 50,000. Red Rolfe is the New York third baseman.



Tom Henrich scoring on the second of his two home runs. This one drove in Gehrig and Dickey (foreground) and threatened to win the second game until the Sox reared up in the eighth and ninth.



Fans crowd around to congratulate Luke Appling, who drove in the winning run in the ninth inning of the second game. It was a measure of revenge for Appling, who was ignored by Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees, when McCarthy selected the American league All-Star team.

Mackinac Fleet Seeks Cover in Lake Storm

Ludington, Mich., July 25.—(AP)—The United States coast guard station reported tonight that eleven boats in the Chicago to Mackinac race were in the Ludington harbor unable to proceed because of bad weather and a heavy sea.

Boatswain O. W. Frickie, in charge of the station, said all the boats came in under their own sail, but some had suffered minor damage. Canvas was blown out in same cases. Coast guardsmen helped the boats to moor.

Marchioness, sixty foot sloop owned by Norman Marsh, was rescued early last evening off Whitehall, Mich. Henry D. Penfield and A. Winfield Craven, mayor and corporation counsel, respectively, of Evanston, were on the boat working as members of a crew which included J. H. Brown, Chicago attorney, and Charles M. Wilson of Northwestern university's crime detection laboratory.

Other boats reported to have taken shelter at Whitehall included C. N. Steele's Privateer; Audax, owned by William Whalen; Betty Bro, Milton Friend's yacht, and T. H. Hefferan's Cynthia.

Frickie said Lively Lady had been reported unofficially as the leading boat in the race until she broke a spar today off Big Sable point. She put back into Ludington.

Frickie said: "It started to blow about 4 p. m. and the racers headed for this harbor, eleven of them reaching here between 5 and 10 o'clock. A fresh northwest wind was blowing and a heavy sea running. I don't believe any of them will be able to continue the race."

Frickie said the coast guard cutter Escanaba was anchored off Ludington and ready to search the area for boats in distress.

50,000 WATCH 12 TO 11 DEFEAT, 7 TO 6 VICTORY

Rally in Ninth Wins Second Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Fifty thousand fans yesterday put in an afternoon of a million baseball emotions as they watched the White Sox play the champion New York Yankees in a double-header. The Sox blew the first game, 12 to 11, after losing a 9 to 4 fourth inning lead, then in the second game they came from behind to win 7 to 6 in the ninth after they had trailed 6 to 3 in the eighth.

Thus the second place Sox took three out of four games in their series with the world champs, this despite a harvest of 11 Yank homers, seven of which were slashed in games won by the Sox and four which jolted Ted Lyons in the first game of yesterday's double-header. The Sox now lead the Yanks in the season play, eight games to six.

No. 13 for Stratton.

Since the second game made everybody happy, let's tell of it first. Monty Stratton went all the way to hang up his 13th victory of the season and his second over the Yankees. But how Tom Henrich made him suffer before old Mule Haas, Rip Radcliff, Mike Kreevich, Luke Appling and other heroes put him over in the last two innings.

The Sox were leading, 3 to 1, going into the sixth inning. The lead was wiped out with two out in the sixth when Henrich clicked the first of his homers with one on. The tie prevailed until the eighth when Henrich again socked one, this time with two on. This made the score 6 to 3 for the Yanks.

The Sox got to Pat Malone in the eighth. A walk to Bonura, Radcliff's double, and Haas' pinch triple, his second hit of the season, put Pat out of the picture. Haas scored the tying run on a wild pitch by Rookie Kemp Wicker. A double play later ended the drive.

Murphy Splits Two.

Then came the windup. Kreevich opened with a double to left. There was an intentional pass to Walker, Bonura's sacrifice and an intentional pass to Radcliff, given in the hope that Appling, the next batter, would hit into a double play and end the inning without a run scoring.

Appling grounded to Lazzeri, who tossed to Crosetti, forcing Radcliff at second, but the Sox shortstop had just enough speed to beat Crosetti's throw to first base and prevent the third out. Meanwhile Kreevich was over the plate with the winning run.

Johnny Murphy, the winning pitcher in the first game, was the losing pitcher in the second.

FIRST GAME

The first excitement in the first game came when Di Maggio lined his No. 27 homer into the center field end of the left field grandstand.

The Sox tied the score before any one was out in their half and should have had at least one more run. Hayes reached second on Rolfe's overthrow of first base and scored on Kreevich's single to right. Kreevich moved up on Walker's sacrifice. Bonura lined a single to center and although the lick was labeled a hit all the way, Kreevich retraced his lead from second instead of running home. Mike finally got his bearings and easily could have scored after his confusion. But he was flagged from the coaching box. Di Maggio then threw to the screen, and Kreevich made his belated try for the plate only to be tossed out. Hadley retrieved the ball and threw to Gehrig, who covered the plate. Bonura reached second in the course of the brainstorm, but Radcliff flied to Di Maggio.

Now It's Yanks' Turn.

The Yankees, in the Sox second inning, looked like the bloomer girls after a hard night out. Appling walked and advanced on Berger's sacrifice. Sewell grounded to Lazzeri, who fumbled the ball. Lazzeri recovered and threw to Gehrig too late to get Sewell. Appling didn't stop at third and Gehrig's throw to Dickey apparently had Luke at the plate. Dickey dropped the ball, however, so Appling scored. Lyons singled to center, Sewell rounding second. Di Maggio tried to trap Sewell off second, but threw through the infield. Sewell reaching third and Lyons second. Hayes singled to left, scoring Sewell and Lyons, and reached second on the throw in. Kreevich and Walker supplied infield outs.

Hadley walked at the start of the third and scored on Crosetti's No. 9 homer.

Dickey Opens Up.

The Sox grabbed two more runs in the third. Bonura opened with his second hit, a single to center, and went to third on a wild pitch. Radcliff sent Henrich to the right field wall for his fly, Bonura scoring. Appling doubled to center and reached third on a passed ball. Luke held third while Crosetti was tossing out Berger, but scored on Sewell's double to right. Sewell reached third standing up on his shot, but staggered off

CLOSING WEEK AT ARLINGTON TO BE AMERICA'S BEST

Futurity, Handicap Climax Season Saturday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There is only a week remaining of the Arlington Park Jocky club's brilliant turf season but much is going to happen during those six racing days.

The 2 year old champion of the year more than likely will come to the front in the renewal of the $55,000 Arlington Futurity on Saturday afternoon.

An outstanding challenger to Seabiscuit's right to rule the roost in the handicap division will gallop home in the ninth running of the $25,000 Arlington handicap, which also is to take place on Saturday afternoon.

It's a Big Afternoon.

Because these two fixtures are offered in one afternoon, the day's racing will be the richest of the year in the central states. Approximately $90,000 will be distributed to the horsemen while the eight race program is run off. No doubt the crowd that will witness it will make it possible for Arlington Park to show its season's best attendance record since 1929.

Twenty of the prize juveniles of the year are pointing for the Futurity, the richest prize they have sought so far this year. A dozen or fifteen of them will face the starter.

The honored post of favorite already has been established. The choice this morning and at post time will be the entry of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago.

She'll Start Three.

Bob McGarvey, who conditions her horses, plans to send three of Mrs. Mars' prize youngsters into the battle. They will be Tiger, winner of the Hyde Park stakes; Sky Larking, the Bashford Manor stakes victor, and C Note, a son of Royal Minstrel, which has been showing fine form lately.

Valdina farm of Texas also will be represented by an entry. Teddy's Comet from this stable scored an impressive victory at Arlington on Saturday and will muster much backing. So will Bull Lea, an expensive son of Bull Dog-Rose Leaves which will carry the silks of Warren Wright.

Hal Prince Headley, Morris Vehon, Mrs. John Hertz, Fred A. Burton, Woolford farms and King ranch are among others who will send their star juveniles after the rich prize.

Blumer to Coach Line for Maroons

With the selection of Herbert Blumer, associate professor of sociology at the University of Chicago as line coach under Clark Shaughnessy, the Maroon coaching staf for the forthcoming season is completed, Nelson Metcalf, director of athletics, announced yesterday. He succeeds Judge Jerome Dunne, who resigned.

Blumer gained national recognition in 1921 as a tackle on the University of Missouri football team, which he captained. In 1919 and 1920 he was named on the All-Mississippi Valley Conference team. He was line coach at Missouri in 1923 and 1924 before coming to the University of Chicago in 1925 to do graduate work on his Ph. D. degree.

While working for his doctorate here he played with the Chicago Cardinals from 1925 to 1933, with the exception of 1932 when he was in France under a special social science research fellowship. During his career as a professional, he played two years each at guard and end and one at tackle and center.

SMILIN' JACK—ASKING FOR TROUBLE

Day and Durso Clash Tonight at Marigold

Tonight's Card

Davey Day vs. Johnny Durso [10], 138.
Jack Fargo vs. Bernie Bowman [5], heavyweights.
Georgie Feist vs. Henry Cullen [4], 126.
Tony Zale vs. Elby Johnson [4], 162.
Johnny Page vs. Harry Booker [4], 135.

Johnny Durso, chesty Louisville, Ky., fighter, will meet Davey Day, Chicago lightweight, in a ten round bout tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. The contest, the weight of which is 138 pounds, will be their second, Day winning in eight rounds at Louisville last May 1.

Day is in line for matches with Lou Ambers, division champion, and Pedro Montanez and Henry Armstrong, foremost contenders. A defeat at the hands of Durso would be a damaging and costly one.

Day has emerged victorious in each of ten previous appearances at Marigold. His opponent of this evening fought a draw with Jimmy Garrison at Milwaukee, Wis., July 15.

Jack Fargo, undefeated heavyweight from Winnetka, clashes with Bernie Bowman, south side 225 pounder, in a five round secondary feature. One of Fargo's achievements is a draw with Carl Vinciguerra at the Coliseum April 28. Georgie Feist, Grand Forks, N. D., scrapper, who stopped Pat O'Brien in his latest start, faces Henry Cullen, south side featherweight, in a four round preliminary bout. Other scraps at four rounds involve Tony Zale, Gary middleweight, and Elby Johnson, and Johnny Page, lightweight newcomer from Los Angeles, and Harry Booker.

Abie Kaplan will make his first Chicago appearance against Chief Sanooke in the main bout of the wrestling show tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. They meet for one hour. Billy Burns, stranger in this city, encounters Mike Kilonis in the 30 minute semi-final. Jack Claybourn, Portland, Ore., colored wrestler, will make his third start here against Mike Chacoma. Eddie Slake is paired with Jack [Bad Boy] Brown, and Johnny Silvy will collide with Pete Sherman.

Francis Smith, hard hitting Aurora southpaw, and Johnny Fairchild, Elgin featherweight, will be opponents in a five round amateur contest tonight at Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard.

Nate Bolden, this year's intercity Golden Gloves 160 pound victor, is to make his professional debut against Bob Gerry in a six round supplementary fight at White City Friday. . . . A ten round return engagement between Roscoe Toles, Detroit heavyweight, and Arturo Godoy, Chile, listed at Detroit Wednesday, has been set back to Aug. 4. . . . King Levinsky will work out today, his first training session since his defeat by Jack Doyle at London April 27. . . . Chester Rutecki, former Catholic Youth Organization and GoldenGloves welterweight titleholder, will engage in two contests this week, facing John Lewandowski at St. Hyacinth auditorium, 636 Wolfram, Wednesday, and Stanley Murczek at St. Bride's hall, 79th street and Coles avenue, Friday. . . . An amateur boxing team from Grand Rapids, Mich., may be the opposition of C. Y. O. boxers in an intercity show at St. Philip's stadium Aug. 6.

BUDGE AND MAKO RESUME BATTLE FOR CUP TODAY

WIMBLEDON, England, July 25.—(AP)—The United States Davis cup team, even with three matches to go, will send Don Budge and Gene Mako onto Wimbledon's famed center court against C. R. D. Tuckey and F. H. D. Wilde of Great Britain tomorrow in the battle for the vital challenge round doubles point.

Although Budge showed signs of weakening against England's Charles Hare in his first singles match Saturday, the Americans are heavy favorites to win the rubber match and go into the last two singles Tuesday with a one point lead.

Wilde played in the United States in 1934, winning the Pacific coast mixed doubles championship. He reached the finals of the All England tournament with Hare last year but he has played little with Tuckey so the combination is something of a question.

Sarazen's 290 Wins $10,000 Chicago Open

card to move into a three way tire with George Smith and Harry Adams.

How thrilling the race throughout was yesterday may be gleaned from the 54 and 63 hole readings. Gene's morning 71 gave him sole possession of the lead with 215, one shot better than the 216s posted by Horton Smith and Laffoon. Here it was that Cooper, who had never lost an official competition at Medinah until yesterday, made his move, batting out a 70 for 217.

The afternoon turn found Sarazen still on top with a 63 hole score of 252. Smith kept the pace with a 253, followed by Cooper, 254, and Laffoon, 255. Runyan, who scored birdies on the first three holes and missed six foot putts for others on the next two greens, had pulled himself within four shots at 256.

Smith's Effort Falls.

Smith, out in 37, like Sarazen, still was a shot behind the Italian at the 63d, and couldn't make up the difference coming home. Runyan was the next threat to walk up the home fairway, but he missed the last green and took a five. Sarazen could take a 39 to tie Smith and a 40 to stay even with Runyan. At that, he nearly exhausted his margin of safety, for he was one over par on the 14th, 16th, and 18th.

The only danger then was Cooper. He, too, was out in 37, but the gallery trailing him groaned when he came down with a seven, two over par on the 582 yard tenth, down which a stout wind was blowing into the teeth of the whole field. Harry redeemed this somewhat with a birdie at the next hole, but needed a six on the par four 12th. It looked like it was all over right there until the little man bounced back with 3—3—3, two birdies and a par, on the next three holes. He got another par at the 16th, and then fell short of the 17th. Then came his bold effort for a birdie at the 18th, and the party was over.

Moore Pitches Syracuse to 1 to 0, No-Hit Victory

Syracuse, N. Y., July 25.—(AP)—Lloyd [Whitey] Moore, right hand pitcher farmed out by the Cincinnati Reds, tonight pitched a no hit, no run game to give the Syracuse Chiefs a 1 to 0 victory over the Jersey City Giants. The 23 year old six footer, a strikeout star for the El Dorado team of the Cotton States league last year, was opposed by Ben Cantwell, ex-Boston Bees' pitcher. It was the second time this year that Jersey City met a no hit, no run defeat. Crip Polli of the Montreal Royals turned the trick against them, 6 to 0, on June 19.

third and was tagged by Rolfe, who had received the throw some 15 feet from third.

Dickey's home run in the fourth, the third of the game off Lyons, did not shake Manager Dykes' sentimental loyalty to Ted.

The Sox took a 9 to 4 lead in the fourth. Murphy started his pitching chore by striking out Lyons. Hayes was hit by a pitched ball. Kreevich bounced out to Crosetti, but Walker rammed his No. 4 homer into the right field stand, scoring Hayes. Bonura knocked his third single and scored on Radcliff's double to right.

Rolfe Starts Trouble.

Two were out before the Yanks' assaulted Lyons in the fifth. Rolfe started the ruckus, with a single to center. Di Maggio tripled to the center field wall, scoring Rolfe. Gehrig singled to center, scoring Di Maggio. Dickey again smashed a homer into the right field stands, scoring Gehrig. With the score 9 to 8 Mr. Dykes decided Lyons rated relaxation. Cain was summoned and walked Henrich on four pitches. Then he struck out Powell.

The Sox scored one run and loaded the bases, all after two were out, happened after two were out. He lost the added honor of a four hit performance only because he gave up a pair of safeties in the ninth.

Lee's first inning was so complicated that he probably felt elated over escaping with only one run on the board. The first happening was a pass to Chiozza, who went to second on Whitehead's infield out. Moore singled over short and Chiozza ran home. Berger scratched a single to Frey. Ott was retired on a pop foul to Frey. Then Herman fumbled Leslie's grounder and the offense filled the bases, but good old Haslin helped out in the emergency. He tapped to Frey for a force play at second.

The Cubs were able to promote a couple of base runners for themselves in the second inning, but neither was able to travel beyond first base. Demaree led off with a pass. The hit and run was flashed, but when Herman missed connections Demaree was nailed going into second. Herman eventually was thrown out by Haslin after which Hartnett singled to left only to be forced by Jurges.

Danning Hits Homer.

Lee fell into arrears by 2 to 0 as soon as Danning enjoyed a chance to bat in the home second. The backstop, who is hobbling around on one leg, rode a pitch into the upper left field deck and limped leisurely around the bases. Lee then took hold of the job at hand and another Giant didn't survive until the fifth, when Chiozza singled to center with one out. Chiozza was forced by Whitehead, and Hartnett's arm took care of the latter when he endeavored to steal second.

The Cubs got on the trail of a rally in the fourth, but didn't go far enough to make it profitable. The trouble was that they didn't bestir themselves until after Frey and Collins had died on infield taps. Demaree singled to left and Herman did the same. Hartnett would have welcomed a chance to hit, but Gumbert fooled him by issuing a pass. The gift loaded the bases and the bubble burst when Jurges grounded to Chiozza who stepped on third to force Demaree.

It Comes Out All Right.

Lee had a little more trouble on his hands in the sixth. Moore led off with a single between Collins and Herman. Berger popped to Collins. Jurges took care of Ott on a grounder, Moore taking second. Leslie rated an intentional pass. This strategy was unexpectedly complicated when Lee cut loose with a wild pitch on which the two runners advanced. Everything was all right when Jurges got his hands on Haslin's bounder.

Shoun was greeted in the eighth by Whitehead's single. Cavarretta threw the ball in and there was nothing wrong with the toss, but Jurges attempted a one handed stop and it escaped. Whitehead went to second on the error which was charged against Cavarretta. Moore beat out a bunt past Shoun whereupon Berger let go with the home run drive which cleared the left field roof. Shoun got through the remainder of the inning despite Leslie's double, on which Galan and Cavarretta became confused, and a pass to Danning.

Two were out in the ninth before the Chicagoans raised their hit total to the half dozen mark. Herman singled to left and Hartnett singled to center. Hartnett then asked Stainback to run for him. Right after this Jurges lined to Whitehead for the final out.

CUBS START HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 25.—The Cubs started for home immediately after the game today, not at all dissatisfied with their accomplishments in the east. They'll go back to work Tuesday at Wrigley field, the Brooklyn Dodgers being the other half of the attraction.

About a dozen of a thousand Hartford, Conn., fans, who were present stepped to home plate before the game and presented King Carl Hubbell with a classy diamond ring.

Bees Defeat Pirates Twice for 22d Victory in 30 Games

Boston, Mass., July 25.—(AP)—Sweeping to their seventh straight victory, all over first division teams, the Boston Bees today won a double-header from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Five hit pitching by Guy Bush carried the Bees to a 5 to 2 victory in the opener while two costly errors by Arky Vaughan enabled the Bees to come from behind and capture the second game, 7 to 5.

The Bees have won twenty-two of their last thirty games.

Lou Fette, the Bees' 30 year old rookie, scored his thirteenth victory of the season in the second game although he had to call on Frank Gabler for help in the seventh.

DR. R. A. WHITE, CHICAGO PASTOR 44 YEARS, DIES

Seven Week Illness Fatal to Civic Leader.

Dr. Rufus A. White, a clergyman prominent in Chicago religious, social and civic work for nearly half a century, died yesterday in the Englewood hospital after a seven week illness.

Dr. R. A. White.

For 44 years, until his retirement a little more than a year ago, Dr. White, who lived at 10641 Hamilton avenue, was pastor of the People's Liberal church of Englewood.

Dr. White, born in Franklin, Pa., came to Chicago in 1892 after serving eight years as a Universalist pastor in Newton, Mass. He was one of the original directors and founders of the Chicago Bureau of Charities and was active in consolidating the Children's Home society and the Children's Aid society into the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, of which he was president for some time.

On Board of Education 5 Years.

He served as a member of the Chicago board of education for five years, and was its vice president for one year.

About 20 years ago Dr. White founded the Chicago Penny Savings society and for a time was the organization's president. He also was a founder of the Oakhaven Old People's home. At one time he was chaplain of the 1st Illinois cavalry regiment, and during the war was a civilian observer and correspondent in France for the Chicago Journal.

Widow and Son Survive.

From his years in social and religious work, Dr. White drew the conclusion at the time of his retirement that the world is one of wonderful people—if they only would behave themselves.

Dr. White's widow, Louise, to whom he had been married more than 50 years, a son, Austin White of Albany, Ga., and four grandchildren survive. Another son, Leslie, father of two of Dr. White's grandchildren, died several years ago.

Mrs. Liss also was chairman of the legislative committee of the National Council of Jewish Women and active in other women's professional organizations. In addition to her husband she is survived by a son, Theodore.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms by Frank Ridgway

For the Children—Get a copy of the fascinating and instructive book, "Day by Day on the Farm," a chronicle of year round activities on the Tribune experimental farms, by Frank Ridgway, Tribune agricultural editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 25 cents. Postpaid, 32 cents.

The Venture in Wheat

July 25, 1937.

TRYING to outguess the weather man, the damage that might be done by pests and diseases, and the market has left farmers on the Tribune's farms in a quandary. That little marketing experiment in which wheat was sold on the futures market for delivery in September has kept the wheel of fortune spinning rapidly for more than a month. And where she stops, nobody knows!

At noon yesterday the spinner in the grain pit of the Chicago Board of Trade stopped at $1.18½—the closing price of September wheat. This represents a drop of between 9 and 10 cents a bushel on September wheat within a week. As a result $93.75 was put back in the $500 margin fund left with a broker by the Tribune's farms when a contract for 1,000 bushels of wheat was sold, on June 21, for delivery in September at $1.08¾ a bushel.

Fund Is $97.50 Short.

Today the margin fund still is short $97.50, representing the difference between the selling price of $1.08¾ a bushel and yesterday's closing price of $1.18½ a bushel, leaving a balance of $402.50 of the original $500.

At the time the sale was made men on the farm felt that they were reasonably sure of getting $1.08¾ a bushel for half the estimated crop of 2,000 bushels, and they would have been satisfied with that amount. But developments within the last month have changed the situation. While grain growers with actual wheat to sell are hoping that prices will go higher, the Tribune's farms are reasonably certain that higher prices would mean a greater loss instead of more profit.

Black Rust Cuts Yield.

Their predicament grows out of the fact that black rust cut the yield to an estimated average of less than ten bushels per acre on the Yorkville farm, where fifty-five acres of wheat is now standing in the shock with the straws covered with fungi and the heads left with shriveled grains. A month ago the outlook was for an approximate average yield of thirty bushels to the acre. The two farms now expect to have a total of less than 875 bushels of wheat.

If the farms had 1,000 bushels of wheat to sell for cash in September they would be sure of getting $1.08¾. Instead they will actually take less than $1.08¾ cents a bushel on the 875 bushels they expect to sell, because they are short approximately 125 bushels. In this case extra cash will be required to pay the difference between the futures contract prices and the delivery price on 125 bushels.

NEWS OF FINANCIAL AND GRAIN MARKETS

LIVELY EVENTS HELD AS NEEDED TO STIR MARKET

World Fairly Quiet, So Trade Creeps.

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—With the vacation season in full swing, it appears that extraordinary developments are required to stir unusual enthusiasm in the stock market, which betimes moves slowly but steadily ahead.

World shaking or populace jarring events were lacking, although the week brought its portion of war alarms and political maneuvering. Beyond the collapse of the Roosevelt scheme to pack the Supreme court and a settlement for the moment of what appeared to be serious trouble between Japan and China there was nothing of an extraordinary nature to jog share trading out of the summer doldrums.

For the week as a whole stocks exhibited their advance into new high ground for the current slow moving recovery. Stocks undoubtedly were aided by the death of the court bill and the prospect of an earlier adjournment of congress.

Utility Share Demand Grows.

A demand for utility shares was a feature of the closing sessions. A factor inspiring new support for the power shares, aside from the defeat of the court measure, was the report of the Edison Electric institute showing power production at an all-time record high of 2,298,005,000 kilowatt hours, a gain of 13.6 per cent over 1936.

Four new highs for the year were recorded, sending THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE average of fifty stocks 0.5 point higher, the industrial component moving ahead 0.84 and the rails 0.16

Bearing out the improved trading tone for July to date, the gain in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE averages amounts to $18.11, topping the largest gain recorded for a full month since April, 1933.

Report Higher Earnings.

The showing of the combined averages has been chiefly due to the rather remarkable recovery in industrials, since railway issues generally have lagged behind pending the outcome of freight rate and wage hearings.

In the last week there have been numerous aids for individual shares in the way of higher earnings statements and increased dividend disbursements. Nearly a hundred corporations reporting for the second quarter disclosed an average increase of about 29 per cent over profits in the corresponding period last year.

ESQUIRE-CORONET SHARES WILL BE OFFERED TODAY

Public offering will be made today of 75,000 shares of $1 par capital stock of Esquire-Coronet, Inc., by Lawrence Stern & Co., Inc., at a price of $16 a share. The company is an outgrowth of the recent consolidation of companies publishing three magazines. The offering does not constitute new financing, but represents the sale by present holders of 75,000 shares of a total of 500,000 shares outstanding. None of the proceeds goes to the company.

A syndicate headed by John Nuveen & Co., Chicago, today will offer $400,000 in 2¾ per cent bonds of Lowell, Mass., maturing in $40,000 amounts each from July 1, 1938 to 1947. The bonds are priced to yield from 0.80 to 2.5 per cent, according to maturity.

Hallgarten & Co. this week expect to offer publicly 26,000 shares of Thomas J. Lipton, Inc., 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $25 par value, and 100,000 shares of class A stock.

The stocks to be offered represent part of a total of 52,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 200,000 shares of Class A stock registered with the Securities and Exchange commission. The company is an American subsidiary of Lipton, Ltd., London, distributors of tea and coffee.

PREDICTS RISE IN CHRISTMAS TRADE THIS YEAR

An upturn of 12 per cent in Christmas holiday trade is forecast for 1937 by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, writing in the current issue of the trade magazine, Advertising Agency.

Describing his predictions as a long range forecast which could be upset, he said that employment this fall will be greater than last autumn and that average wages of workers will be higher, which means there will be a greater amount of spending money.

In addition, he said, it seems probable that total agricultural income will be the largest since 1929 and almost as great as that of the "bonanza" period of the world war.

U. S. Cites Two Chicago Firms for Unfair Methods

Washington, July 25.—(AP)—The federal trade commission announced today it has charged Joseph W. Graff, 4224 Lincoln avenue, Chicago, trading as the Slyvan company, and Theodore H. Koolish, 538 South Franklin street, Chicago, trading as Universal Specialties company, with unfair methods of competition. The commission said the two companies, selling various items for merchandise including clocks, radios, pen and pencil sets, food mixers and cameras, were charged with "promotion of sales by means of lotteries or gift enterprises."

Wheat, Corn Put Farmer 'In the Money'

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Both the wheat and corn crops will be big money makers for the American farmer this year.

Harvesting of the winter wheat crop is near completion and the final returns are expected to fulfill the department of agriculture's estimate of a 664 million bushel yield, the best since 1931. The spring wheat crop has deteriorated since July 1, when the government predicted a harvest of 241 million bushels, but production is expected to be large enough to bring the country's total wheat crop this year to more than 800 million bushels.

Output Close to Average.

Average wheat production from 1928-'32 was 865 million bushels. This year's yield will come near that figure and, more important, farmers are assured of good prices.

With the summer half over, the outlook for the corn crop is the best in several seasons. The condition of the crop has improved steadily since the July 1 estimate of the government of 2 billion 555 million bushels. If present favorable conditions continue, it is predicted the crop may run 200 to 300 million bushels above the government's estimate.

The corn belt farmer also faces a promising market outlook. Corn for delivery next December is currently bringing 75 cents a bushel in Chicago. The price has declined in the last two weeks with the rapid gain in the crop's prospects.

Yield Offsets Price Decline.

The increase in promised yields, however, offsets the decline in the price as far as the farmer is concerned. At present prices the corn farmer will have one of the best seasons in many years. The crop will be fully a billion bushels larger than last year's meager return.

A brisk export business in wheat now appears certain, according to the bureau of agriculture economics. Basing its opinion on the agricultural department's July 1 production estimates, the bureau believes the United States will be the largest wheat exporter in the world this season.

This year's large corn and wheat crops assure ample supplies in this country with a surplus of wheat for export, but they do not mean a condition of oversupply has returned.

The Chicago Railway Equipment company had a net profit of $355,291 for the six months ended June 30, compared with $165,292 in the corresponding period of 1936, A. C. Moore, president, reported yesterday. These figures included estimated provision for surtax, amounting to $66,000 in the 1937 period and $27,000 a year earlier.

Net operating profit for the period amounted to $563,491, compared with $255,442 in the first half of 1936. Moore said that as of July 1 unpaid dividends on the prefered stock totaled $3.50 a share.

Consolidated net earnings applicable to common shares of the New England Power association amounted to $1,196,027 in the first half of 1937 after preferred dividends but before surtax, Frank D. Comerford, chairman, announced yesterday. This was equal to $1.28 a common share and compared with $475,189, or 50 cents a share, in the first half of 1936.

Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company and subsidiaries reported consolidated net income of $2,970,105 before surtax for the twelve months ended June 30, against $1,711,185 in the preceding twelve months.

Cluett, Peabody & Co. reported net income for the six months ended June 30 of $602,112 after depreciation, interest and other charges, but before federal surtax on undistributed profits, equal after preferred dividends requirements to $2.56 on 188,291 no par common shares. Safeway Stores, Inc.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give such information as you can on stock of Safeway Stores. How does the movement to tax chain stores affect them? —A. C. G.

Answer: An aggressive expansion program completed in 1931 established Safeway Stores, Inc., as the largest grocery chain west of the Mississippi river and second largest in the United States.

The company operates more than 3,300 stores, half on the Pacific coast and about 30 per cent more in other western states. Eastern operations concentrated in Maryland, Virginia, and Washington, D. C., account for about one-seventh of stores.

Chain store tax legislation has had little effect on Safeway, thanks to the voters of California, who defeated a proposal which would have cost the company an estimated $650,000 annually. More than 35 per cent of all its stores are located in California.

Earnings were favorable throughout the depression, although expanded operations and sales have not been reflected in net income because of narrower profit margins. Earnings improved last year but net income was only two-thirds as much as in 1929 although sales and number of stores operated increased 50 per cent in the seven years. Increased wholesale, promotional and operating costs were particularly hurtful in 1935. The record of recent years follows:

	Sales.	Net income.	Inc. per common share.
1936.....	$346,178,000	$4,157,000	$3.95
1935.....	294,698,000	3,410,000	3.07
1934.....	242,986,000	3,867,000	3.61
1933.....	220,157,000	4,007,000	3.76
1932.....	229,173,000	4,248,000	4.04

Sales have continued upward this year to new records, the total of $170,896,000 in the 24 weeks ended June 12 being 15.7 per cent more than sales of $147,843,000 in the corresponding 1936 period.

Current assets were $43,711,000 and current liabilities were $11,437,000 on Dec. 31, 1936, reflecting good financial position. Funded debt consists of $15,000,000 of 10 year 4 per cent debentures sold in July, 1937, to pay off bank loans and increase corporate funds.

There are 798,922 shares of no par common stock and 154,941 shares of $100 par preferred stock paying 5, 6, and 7 per cent dividends. This includes 15,853 shares of new 5 per cent preferred issued in payment of a $2 stock dividend on the common last December to conserve cash and escape taxes. Cash dividends amounted to $2 in 1936. The present regular rate of $2 was adopted in October, 1935.

The common stock deserves a good rating. The preferred is high grade. The debentures are rated sound.

TRUCK LOADINGS OF COMMODITIES SHOW INCREASE

Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—The movement of commodities by motor truck in June, 1937, reflected a continued gain in the business, according to figures made public today by the American Trucking Associations, Inc.

The figures presented, based on reports from 134 trucking companies, showed a gain of 15.81 per cent in June over June, 1936, but a drop of 3.2 per cent under May, 1937. The figures, it was stated, do not show the full amount of tonnage transported since the members of the group reporting do not represent the whole industry. According to the figures available, however, June loadings totaled 613,076 tons, against 633,378 tons in May and 529,345 tons in June, 1936.

Abitibi Power Offers Plan to Reorganize

TORONTO, Ont., July 25.—[Special.]—Joseph P. Ripley, chairman of the bondholders' representative committee of the Abitibi Power and Paper company, one of the largest newsprint enterprises in Canada, tonight announced a plan of reorganization designed to end a 5-year receivership for the company.

The plan is sponsored by the bondholders' committee and has been approved by the preferred stockholders' protective committee, of which Lt. Col. Herbert Molson is chairman. The Supreme court of Ontario has called a meeting of first mortgage bondholders for Oct. 15 to consider sale of the company's properties under terms of the plan.

Several Steps in Plan.

The plan provides for the following steps:

Recapitalization on a sound basis through formation of a new company to acquire the properties; provision of $14,000,000 of new money for working capital and improvements; exchange of approximately $58,000,000 of new convertible bonds and debentures, together with 241,335 shares of capital stock, for $63,000,000 principal and unpaid interest of outstanding Abitibi bonds.

Issuance of 1,383,665 shares of capital stock and subscription warants to purchase a total of 1,989,331 shares of capital stock to be offered present preferred and common stock holders; reinstatement and rearrangement of Abitibi's pulpwood concessions and water power rights, in accordance with an agreement with the province of Ontario.

Properties to Be Transferred.

With the exception of a certain power development to be transferred to the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario, all properties of the old company will be transferred to the new company.

The new corporation will issue: $14,000,000 in first closed mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, due 1952; $24,133,500 general and refunding mortgage bonds, to be distributed to holders of present first mortgage bonds; $33,786,900 of convertible income debentures to be distributed to holders of first mortgage bonds; 241,335 shares of capital stock to be distributed to holders of present first mortgage bonds; 1,383,665 shares of capital stock to be distributed in the ratio of 5 shares for each share of old 7 per cent preferred, 3½ shares for each share of old 6 per cent preferred, and 1-10 share for each share of old common.

STEEL OUTPUT DIPS SLIGHTLY; STILL AT 81 PCT.

Steel ingot production in the United States last week receded 1 point to 81 per cent of capacity, as sharp recessions in the Cleveland, Detroit, and Pittsburgh areas were only partly offset by increased activity in the Wheeling, eastern Pennsylvania, and New England districts, the magazine Steel reported yesterday.

The operating rate in the Cleveland area fell 28 points to 51 per cent of capacity, due to closing of the Lorain, O., plant of the National Tube company for vacation. Pittsburgh declined 5 points to 83 per cent and Detroit dipped 2 points to 95. Eastern Pennsylvania rose 2 points to 70, New England 12 points to 90, and Wheeling 1 point to 92 per cent.

Chicago production remained unchanged at 84 per cent and others also unchanged were Youngstown at 78, Buffalo at 88, Birmingham at 96, Cincinnati at 93, and St. Louis at 93 per cent.

Professional.

In the securities and commodity markets the person who speculates for his own account without acting as a broker for others is known as a "professional" trader. His livelihood depends on his ability to guess market trends.

Usually he is more interested in making an eighth of a point profit on his transactions than in holding for a longer time in the hope of a larger return. He may be "long" on the market in the morning and "short" in the afternoon. He doesn't always guess correctly, but to stay in business he has to be right marketwise most of the time.

The "professional" may or may not be an exchange member. In most cases,

Based upon reports of 6,304 manufacturing and nonmanufacturing enterprises, there was an increase of 0.2 of 1 per cent in employment and 0.8 of 1 per cent in total wage payments from May to June. These were the same gains recorded during the corresponding period of the last fourteen years. The department received 174 reports of wage increases during June. These affected 25,741 workers in manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries, or 3.9 per cent of the total number of workers reported as employed. The weighted average rate of increase was 7.8 per cent, compared with a weighted average gain of 9.5 per cent in May.

Crowd of 50,000 Sees Sox and Yanks Split Double-header—Sarazen Wins Chicago Open With 290 Strokes

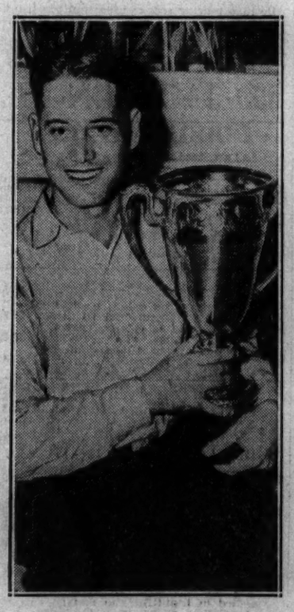
Air view of Comiskey park during yesterday's double-header between the White Sox and the New York Yankees. The Yankees won the first game, 12 to 11, while the Sox took the second, 7 to 6, before 50,000 fans. Arrows indicate the courses taken by seven home runs during the two games, with names of players who made them, and Di Maggio's long triple to the center field wall in the first game. Note the massed automobiles parked on either side of the park. Trafic was delayed after the games because many drivers, to avoid the rain, stayed in the stands instead of getting their cars out of the way. (Story on page 15.) [Transcontinental and Western Air Lines Photo.]

SINGING ON THEIR FINGERS AT MEETING FOR THE DEAF—Mabel Gates (left), Ann Shawl, and Marjorie McKinnon sing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" in the sign language in the Hotel Sherman, where the 18th triennial convention of the National Association of the Deaf will be opened today. (Story on page 1.)

Winning Pro and Leading Amateur at Chicago Open

Gene Sarazen, the farmer golfer, at Medinah Country club yesterday, when he won the $10,000 Chicago open tourney.

Sarazen scored a par 4 on the last hole in the morning round when he needed two putts to get down. His 72 hole score of 290 gave him the championship by a margin of one stroke over three competitors. [TRIBUNE Photos.]



Gus Moreland won this cup when he shot a 300, the lowest score among amateurs competing in the tournament.

Even champions get into trouble, but champions know how to get out. Here Sarazen is blasting out of a sand trap on the No. 4 fairway in the afternoon round. He ended with a 5. He was seven over par for the 72 holes. (Story on page 15.)

BOOTLEGGING COAL IN PENNSYLVANIA

Five million tons of coal valued at 40 million dollars, it is estimated, will be dug illegally this year from privately owned mines in Pennsylvania. Here is a bootleg mine being operated. In background (1) is a privately owned mine not being worked. Miners who normally would be digging there are taking coal from the bootleg pit (2), with no effort being made by the state to stop the practice.

[Acme Photos.]

Two miners about to enter a makeshift ele vator to descend into a bootleg mine. Coal bootlegging on private property began during the dep ression when operators were forced to close many mines and people were told to take out coal for t heir own use. Since then the practice has steadily increased, while negotiations for reopening close d properties have broken down repeatedly.

DOING THE "BIG APPLE," THE LATEST DANCE DOWN IN DIXIE

Young folks of the south have a new dance, a hodgepodge of old and new steps. It's called the "Big Apple," and they got the idea for it when watching colored dancers in a night club at Columbia, S. C. Here's part of the way it's done: (1) Dancers gather in a circle as the music begins in medium tempo, then individual couples step to the center and "shine." (2) Evalyn Johnson trucks to meet her partner, Johnny Campbell. (3) They "sway back" and (4) kick high. Other steps are called swing and truck, shinny, and round and round. (Story on page 5.) [Associated Press Wirephotos.]
